Despite Nearly Three Hour Departure Delay ...

'Sailing Smoothly Through Space'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 17's astronauts rocketed through space today on the final and most difficult chapter of America's planned exploration of the moon, sailing smoothly despite an electronic failure that delayed their departure by almost three hours and forced them to step up their speed slightly.

Noonday brightness briefly flooded Cape Kennedy at 12:33 a.m. EST as their Saturn 5 rocket, tall as a 36-story building, roared off its launch pad and traced an orange comet trail into the sky toward a Sunday rendezvous with the moon. The moon landing is set for Monday.

On the ground more than half a million people watched the blastoff, some of them hundreds of miles from the Cape.

A last-second electronic circuit failure delayed the launch 2 hours and 40 minutes — and threatened to postpone it for an entire month. But technicians at the Cape and in Alabama worked out a way to bypass the faulty gear and get the flight started safely.

Despite its late start, Apollo 17 was going so smoothly that a course correction maneuver scheduled for this morning was canceled. The astronauts had fired an extra strong — and very accurate — blast of the top stage of their rocket to break out of Earth orbit toward the moon, going a little faster than originally planned to make up lost time.

Astronauts Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Harrison H. Schmitt locked the command ship and moon landing craft nose-to-nose and cast off the spent top stage of the Saturn rocket five hours after launch.

Mission controllers at Houston reported the discarded rocket stage was on a true course to slam into the moon's face Sunday — while Apollo 17 is behind the moon — about 124 miles east of where Apollo 14 landed in 1971. The shock waves, equal to the explosion of 11 tons of TNT, will be recorded by instruments left behind by previous moon crews.

On Monday, Cernan and Schmitt are due to land on the lunar surface at mid-afternoon EST, and about four hours later to begin three days of exploration in a mountain-rimmed valley which planners hope will be more scientifically productive than any moon visit to date.

With their ship soaring smoothly on course this morning, Cernan, Evans and Schmitt ate a space meal of beef and gravy, chicken stew, ambrosia, gingerbread and brownies, and then prepared for their first sleep period in space.

Looking back toward home from a distance of more than 25,000 miles, Schmitt told mission control: If there ever was a fragile appearing piece of blue in space, it's the Earth right now.

The biggest problem seemed a mysterious—and apparently harmless—repeated squealing of the spacecraft's master alarm tone. That, mission control indicated, was for the present merely a nagging irritant.

See Editorial on page 6.

Space agency officials said the delayed launch should cause no problems for the flight. It did, however, force cancellation of a planned space telecast showing the separation of the linked-up spacecraft from the Saturn. Cernan told mission control this was "really a shame" because it was such a colorful sight.

The delay also added nearly three hours to the astronauts' work day. But the spacemen, all ready to go in their white spacecraft when the countdown stopped, calmly used the holdup to rest. They were never in danger.

Apollo 17 is the 11th and last of the bold, $25 billion Apollo series that put man on the moon in 1969 and returned lunar treasures to scientists. The flight is to end with a Pacific splashdown Dec. 19.

Cernan and Schmitt, the first scientist ever to fly in space, are to land Monday in a steep-walled lunar valley on the moon's face—about the left eye of the man in the moon. There they hope to find both the oldest and the youngest lunar specimens yet.

While his two companions spend 75 hours on the surface, making three moonwalks to gather rocks and carry out a series of scientific projects, Evans will circle the moon and study it with an unprecedented array of remote sensing instruments.

The blastoff, when it finally came at 12:33 a.m. EST, lit up the Florida East Coast like dawn. It was America's first night launch of a manned spacecraft.

An estimated half-million spectators kept a midnight vigil on beaches near Cape Kennedy to see the spectacle. Countless others in backyards and on rooftops up to 300 miles away saw the rocket's orange, comet-like passage. Television carried the launch to an estimated 80 million home viewers.

The astronauts got the best view of all. Sailing into orbit, they looked out the windows of command ship America at the blaze of the Saturn's powerful engines and the jettisoning of the launch escape tower.

"This night launch is something to behold," Schmitt told Mission Control. And all three whooped when the escape tower rocket blasted away.

"Hey! There she goes," shouted Cernan. "We've seen it all. Ignition, staging and tower jettison."

After a bit more than two astronauts fired a second blast of the Saturn's top stage at 3:45 a.m. and rocketed toward the moon.

They ran the engine 5 minutes 52 seconds and hit a top speed of 24,187 miles per hour—a little faster than normal—to make up for the delayed launch and get to the moon on time Monday.

Apollo 17's launch troubles cropped up just 30 seconds before the planned liftoff time of 9:53 p.m. Wednesday. A flaw in an automatic countdown control kept an oxygen tank aboard the Saturn from being pressurized—and shut off the automatic countdown sequence.

Dutchess Professor: 'No Undue Concern'

By HUGH REYNOLDS

POUGHKEEPSIE

For a man who had lived through the ordeal of Apollo 13, and indeed played a key part in bringing the crew from that damaged space craft safely home to earth, a three-hour delay of Apollo 17 was "no cause for undue concern."

Associate Professor of Physics at Dutchess County Community College, H. Lee Tucker Jr., watched the Apollo 17 launch on television, like millions of others, but for 10 years and five Apollo flights he was in the very forefront of the space program.

"I wasn't unduly concerned about the delay," Tucker, a former guidance and control system specialist for the Lunar Module (LM), told The Freeman today. "It was a case of seeing familiar things happen again," he said. "No matter how many simulations you go through, there's always some problem. What happened last night is a good indication that they did all their homework. They were ready (when the problem arose) and they handled it."

Tucker's vantage point for previous Apollo flights was from a building adjacent to Houston Control Center. He and his team worked out of the Grumman Aerospace Corporation headquarters in Bethpage, L.I., and flew to Houston for the Apollo launches.

Four of those five flights were "routine" but on Apollo 13 Tucker and his team played a vital role.

As Tucker tells it, after the final touchdown of Apollo 11 (the first manned landing on the moon) and the "uneventful" voyage of Apollo 12, Tucker and the other Grumman scientists and technicians returned to Long Island assuming what Tucker termed a "firm confidence" concerning future space missions.

Not until he heard the late evening news report on April 13, 1970, describing an unknown explosion aboard the Apollo 13 spacecraft, did Tucker believe that catastrophe could overtake the American space effort.

Aboard an emergency flight enroute to Houston early the next morning, Tucker recalled how the rupture of an oxygen tank in the spacecraft's service module "had not been given much time in the simulator . . . we simply felt that the chances of such an event were too remote."

Investigation after the abortive Apollo 13 flight confirmed that an electrical spark had caused one of the crafts' two oxygen tanks to fail, terminating the crew's supply of electricity, drinking water, and other consumables.

The emergency transfer of the astronauts into the LM for the return to earth placed Tucker in a primary role. As the author of six scientific papers on the guidance characteristics of the lunar module, he consulted with flight engineers in Houston throughout the four-day return flight of the astronauts.

Today he proudly displays an unusual memento of the ill-fated flight: a portion of the cabin webbing from the interior of the lunar lander which the grateful crew members presented to Grumman engineers after the successful splashdown.

Professor Tucker, who left the space program "voluntarily" earlier this year, has been teaching general and engineering courses at Dutchess since September and believes his experience with the Apollo program improves his teaching effectiveness. "So many of the space flight concepts derive from fundamental physics principles," he told The Freeman.

Tucker thinks the billions of dollars expended in the Apollo program was "money extremely well spent, at least compared to other government programs."

"We may not see the true value of it for many years," he added.

Tucker said he is "equally anxious" to see the space shuttle program underway, terming it a natural extension of the Apollo program. "The space shuttle will have a large variety of missions, among them to study the earth from an environmental point. We should also be able to determine man's performance in space for extended periods of time."

Tucker termed the reusable space shuttle, "the most economic means of space exploration."

Now immersed in his duties as a professor at Dutchess, Tucker has no plans to return to the space program. He still maintains a keen interest in the program and says he will continue to follow its progress . . . from his television set.

Peace Negotiations...Speculation of Progress

PARIS (UPI) — The Vietnamese Communists said today negotiations to end the Vietnam War are deadlocked, and the Americans admitted some problems remain. But there were headline reports in the French press that Dr. Henry A. Kissinger had already reached an agreement with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

Speculation of progress in the secret Kissinger-Tho negotiations received a boost today when Kissinger lunched with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann before today's round of talks at a still undisclosed site. Schumann hurried back from a NATO meeting in Brussels for the 75-minute meeting.

When Kissinger descended a sweeping staircase after lunch in the Foreign Ministry building, he was met by such a rush of newsmen that he commented, "You're going to kill me." And when they asked him about details of the Paris newspaper reports of a draft treaty he replied, "You want me to give them in great detail?"

He smiled and returned to the U.S. Embassy residence before the scheduled Tho meeting.

The presidential advisor started a new meeting with Hanoi's Tho at Gif Sur Yvette outside of Paris at 3 p.m.—their fourth in as many days.

The pessimistic reports from Viet Cong negotiator Madame Nguyen Thi Binh and deputy Hanoi negotiator Nguyen Minh Vy came before, during and after the 169th regular Thursday session of the semipublic talks which have served more as a propaganda forum than as a means of negotiating an end to the war.

Related stories on page 3.

Mme. Binh, who is the Viet Cong foreign minister, said: "While rumors circulate about the possibility of the peace agreement being signed today, I am sorry to disappoint you. Thus you see today will not mark the end of the war."

Reports of an agreement came in the newspaper L'Aurore which headlined its front-page story: "Vietnam peace accord signed in next few hours" and quoted "reliable sources" as saying Hanoi agreed to Saigon's demand for an Indochina-wide cease-fire and withdrawal of its troops. There was no confirmation from other sources.

Vy referred to Saigon demands for the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops and said: "These tendentious distortions and absurd demands have again pushed the negotiations into a deadlock."

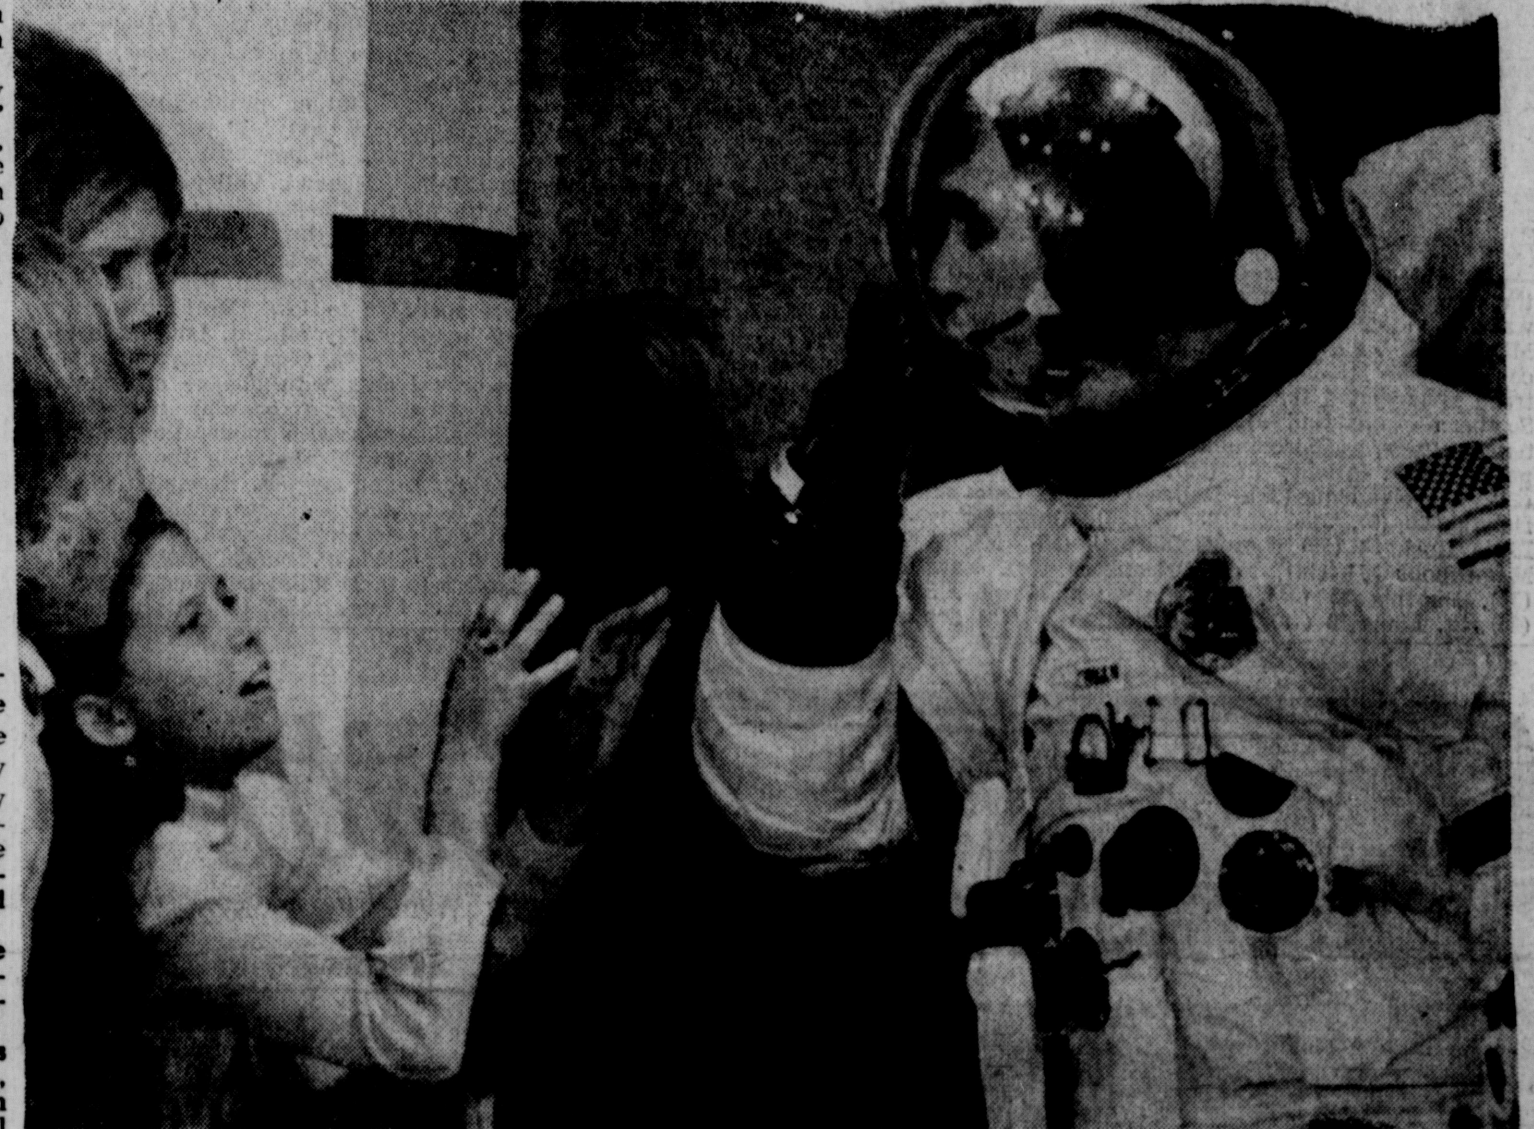

Mme. Binh said South Vietnam was planning the liquidation of political prisoners in its jails and she demanded the United States guarantee their safety and set them free.

"We demand the United States and Saigon guarantee the security of all prisoners and set them free," Mrs. Binh told reporters. Her statement came as the French press circulated stories saying a peace signing is imminent.

The newspaper L'Aurore headlined today: "Vietnam Agreement to be Signed in the Coming Hours" and the French news agency said a signing was confidently expected when Kissinger, President Nixon's national security advisor, meets later today with Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho and other North Vietnamese officials.

L'Aurore quoted a "sure source" as saying Kissinger and Tho settled all remaining differences in 5½ hours of talks Wednesday—the longest in the latest session of their 22nd round of secret negotiations that began August, 1969.

Truman Lingerin' Near Death

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman, 88, critically ill, rallied slightly today. Doctors said deterioration of his heart and lungs stopped during the night and vital signs stabilized.

"President Truman has shown a very slight improvement, but his condition continues to be critical," said John Dreves, spokesman for the hospital. "He's in the worst condition I've ever seen him."

A hospital spokesman said that when a patient was described as critical it meant "death may be imminent."

His wife Bess, 87, and his daughter, Margaret Daniel, remained by his bedside through the night, but left Research Hospital at 5:15 a.m., with no announced time for return.

The nation's 33rd president had suffered from lung congestion for two weeks at his Independence, Mo., home before he was hospitalized Tuesday night with symptoms of heart failure. His condition fell from "fair" to "serious" Wednesday, and to "critical" Wednesday night.

"Mr. Truman remains in critical condition, but vital signs continue to be stable as they have been during the night," the hospital said in a medical statement issued today. "Respiration and cardiovascular functions are stable, and his temperature decreased slightly to 101 degrees."

Dreves earlier had said the fluid in Truman's lungs had diminished slightly.

"He is in a very deep stupor," said Dreves. "An infection complicates the condition. He has not responded to antibiotics. His condition continues to be in a delicate and critical balance."

President Nixon was kept apprised of Truman's condition by White House doctors.

Mrs. Daniel arrived at the hospital shortly after midnight. The White House provided her with a jet to fly her from Washington to Kansas City. She spent about 30 minutes in her father's sixth-floor room and then met with reporters in the hospital lobby.

"My father is asleep and resting," she said. I am optimistic. He has gotten over worse things."

Mrs. Truman, tired and strained from an all-day vigil Wednesday, returned to the hospital in the evening when Truman's condition became critical. She used a metal cane and was assisted by Secret Service agents as she braved near-zero temperatures.

Truman's personal physician, Dr. Wallace Graham, said Truman was being given oxygen to help him breathe and said the former President had an irregular heartbeat at times.

Mrs. Marcos Wounded

MANILA (UPI) — An attack

armed with a long, curved bolo knife stabbed and wounded Mrs. Imelda Marcos, wife of President Ferdinand E. Marcos, as she was presenting awards for civic beautification in a televised ceremony today near Manila Airport.

Guards grappled the man to the floor of an outdoor stage where the attack took place and shot and killed him as Mrs. Marcos fell. Hundreds of persons in the crowd screamed as they watched the attack.

Foreign Undersecretary Manuel Collantes said Mrs. Marcos suffered wounds in her hands and arms but was not in danger. Collantes carried her to a helicopter which flew her to a hospital.

An hour after the attack, medical officials said Mrs. Marcos was in "good" condition.

A member of the Philippines congress also was wounded, but not seriously.

The attack occurred during a ceremony at the Nayong Filipino village near Manila International airport as Mrs. Marcos handed out prizes in a cleanliness and beautification contest.

Estafania Aldaba Lim, secretary of social welfare, who was with Mrs. Marcos on the stage, suffered wounds in her hands and arms but was not in danger. The man looked strange. He was in a sheath. It didn't look sharp. I saw him lunge three times."

There was no immediate identification of the attacker.

Marcos, described as in "a highly excited state," arrived a few minutes later at the hospital, the Makati Medical Center, to see what injuries his wife suffered.

Security officials said the attacker used a bolo, a long curved knife, in his attempt on the 42-year-old former beauty queen while she was awarding prizes to winners of a beautification and cleanliness campaign at the village.

The attack came as hundreds watched.

Lawmakers in Miami Beach

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A total of 38 state legislators and aides, including three "lame ducks", are attending the national conference of legislative leaders in Miami Beach, it was learned today.

The contingent, second only to Pennsylvania's in size, includes 11 of the 57 senators, 13 of the 150 assemblymen, and 14 top staff members.

The trip to the four-day meeting was financed by a special $15,000 appropriation regularly included in the legislative budget.

The wintertime migration to the posh resort center became topical when the Michigan legislature took a week's vacation to allow 35 of its 148 members to attend.

New York adjourned last May, and reconvenes Jan. 3.

Asked if New York taxpayers were getting their money's worth, a spokesman for Senate Majority Leader - Elect Warren M. Anderson said, "yes."

"We've learned a lot about various problems from these sessions in the past," he said. "New York's greater degree of participation is mostly because we've got greater problems."

Events on this year's agenda include a panel on welfare reform, moderated by Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea, one on no-fault insurance, chaired by New York's no-fault expert, Sen. Bernard G. Gordon, R-Peekskill, and one on staff work, led by Al Roberts, secretary to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

There are other workshops and addresses by several Nixon cabinet officials.

The Anderson spokesman said those attending besides Duryea, Gordon, Anderson and Roberts included Republican Sens. Thomas McGowan of Buffalo, W.T. Smith of Elmira, John Marchi of Staten Island, and Democrat Joseph Zaretzki of Manhattan, the Majority Leader, Abraham Bernstein of the Bronx, Jeremiah Bloom of Brooklyn, Nicholas Ferraro of Queens and Frank Glinski of Buffalo.

Assemblymen included Republican Majority Leader John Kingston of Westbury, Deputy Leader James Emery of Genesee, Glen Harris of Canada Lake, Lloyd Russell of East Otto, Kenneth Leasure of Endicott, and Dominick Di Carlo of Brooklyn. Democrats were Minority Leader Stanley Steingut, George Cincotta and Stanley Fink of Brooklyn, Louis De Salvo and William Passanante of Manhattan, and Arthur Eve of Buffalo.

Senate staff members present were Richard J. Roth, Anderson's press secretary; Al Abrams, the senate secretary; budget experts John Lauber, Kent Sanders and Roger Thompson, and Jack Haggerty, Anderson's counsel.

From the assembly staff were Phil Biscaglia, Duryea's Counsel, assistant counsels Richard Scolaro and Charles Webb, administrative aide Henry Mund, June Martin, the head of the assembly central staff, and Michael Del Giudice and Daniel Chill, both aides to the minority leaders.

The lame ducks were Laverne, who was defeated in the June primary; Russell, who lost in November, and Leasure, who is retiring.

Laverne is chairman of a national committee on school finance.

The national conference began several years ago with a meeting in Albany. Next year's meeting is scheduled for Seattle.

Garden Unnecessary

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — The sheriff's chemist won't have to grow his little marijuana garden after all.

A Bakersfield judge, who had ordered the chemist to plant some seeds taken in a marijuana case in order to prove they were pot, rescinded the directive after the defendants admitted that's what they were.

Weather Forecast

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — New York State Zone forecasts: Catskills and Upper and Lower Hudson Valley—Some cloudiness this morning, diminishing and becoming mostly sunny all sections this afternoon. Diminishing winds and cold with afternoon highs in the upper 20s to the mid 30s. Mostly clear and quite cold tonight. Lows mainly 5 to 15 above but a few spots near zero. Friday sunny in the morning with increasing cloudiness and chance of rain or wet snow developing late in the day. High in the 30s. Precipitation probability near zero today and tonight and 50 per cent Friday. Winds northwesterly 10 to 20 miles per hour and gusty this morning, diminishing to 10 mph this afternoon and variable 5 to 10 mph tonight.

Seven Western Counties, Western and Eastern Finger Lakes Regions, Central Southern Tier Counties and Eastern Lake Ontario Counties—Sunny intervals and chance of snow flurries today. High in the 20s. Generally clear tonight. Low about 10 urban centers and near zero valley and rural areas. Friday clouding up with snow likely and possibly changing to rain. High in the mid 30s. Variable winds 5 to 15 miles per hour, becoming southeasterly tonight. Precipitation probability 30 per cent today, 10 per cent tonight and 70 per cent Friday.

Mohawk Valley—Considerable cloudiness, windy and cold with a few brief flurries this morning, becoming partly cloudy this afternoon. High in the mid 20s to low 30s. Fair to partly cloudy tonight. Lows zero to 10 above. Friday increasing cloudiness with chance of snow developing possibly changing to rain with moderating temperatures. High in the upper 20s and low 30s. Precipitation probability 10 per cent today, near zero tonight and 50 per cent on Friday. Winds northwesterly 12 to 20 miles per hour and gusty, diminishing this afternoon to 10

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Friday

Tonight snow is forecast from Kansas and Nebraska to the Great Lakes. Rain and showers will extend southwestward from the Great Lakes through the Ohio and Middle Mississippi Valleys to the Gulf Coast region. It will be colder in the Middle and North Atlantic States. A warming trend is indicated for the Gulf Coast area, portions of the Southern Plains and Middle Mississippi Valley. Minimum temperatures, (approximate maximum temperatures in parentheses): Atlanta 37 (57), Boston 21 (34), Chicago 7 (22), Cleveland 10 (39), Dallas 34 (61), Denver -5 (15), Duluth -10 (8), Jacksonville 58 (75), Kansas City 10 (29), Little Rock 28 (55), Los Angeles 41 (56), Miami 72 (85), Minneapolis -11 (14), New Orleans 59 (70), New York 24 (32), Phoenix 32 (54), San Francisco 36 (48), Seattle 21 (30), St. Louis 18 (48) and Washington 26 (40) degrees.

Red Battallion Pinned Down In Two Villages Near Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Government troops chasing guerrillas who rocketed South Vietnam's largest allied air base pinned down a Communist battallion in two villages near Saigon today, then called in air strikes that flattened the area, field reports said.

In the air war over North Vietnam, U.S. Navy jet fighters bombed the runways at two MIG bases Wednesday. U.S. command spokesmen said hitting a missile site and knocking out a key railroad bridge. One of the strikes was only six miles below the 20th Parallel bombing halt line imposed by President Nixon.

A command spokesman said B-52 bombers trying to break up Communist supply routes Wednesday flew massive strikes in the Demilitarized Zone separating the two Vietnams. South Vietnamese Air Force fighter-bombers using bombs, rockets, cannon fire and napalm smothered the villages seven miles northeast of Saigon, field reports said. More than three battallions of South Vietnamese troops and two tank groups—about 6,000 men—closed in on the area after beginning the fight with the Communist unit Wednesday night.

An estimated two companies of Communist infantrymen and a rocket unit—numbering about 300 men—were believed responsible for Wednesday's daylight shelling of the huge Tan Son Nhut air base that killed nine persons, including one American, and wounded 54. It was the biggest barrage at the allied base since the 1968 Tet fighting.

Military sources said 30 Communists were killed and one captured in the action which ended at noon when the guerrilla force moved out. Field reports said five South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and seven wounded.

The U.S. command said Wednesday's fighter-bomber strikes into North Vietnam left numerous craters in MIG runways at the Quang Lang airfield 50 miles northwest of the panhandle port city of Vinh and the Bai Thuong airfield 21 miles from Thanh Hoa.

A Navy A7 Corsair zipped to within two miles of the invisible bombing line to hit a surface-to-air missile site. The Navy said, and another Corsair used a television-guided bomb to destroy a key railroad bridge 21 miles south of Thanh Hoa, the closest big city to the 20th Parallel.

The two villages in today's fighting near Saigon are only 200 yards apart. It was believed the guerrillas after launching the Tan Son Nhut barrage fell back to them and holed up in bunkers, which were the main target of the government troops.

Later Wednesday, Communist gunners also killed one person and wounded 15 others in a rocket attack at the American built Phu Bai air base about 390 miles north of Saigon, the Saigon command said.

Among today's government casualties in the South Vietnamese counterattack, military sources said, were two soldiers killed and 10 wounded when a Saigon helicopter gunship mistakenly fired on a militia unit. Cause of the incident was being investigated.

The U.S. Command announced today that no Americans were killed in action in Vietnam last week for the second successive week. But it said three Americans died from non-hostile causes, one was missing or captured and seven were wounded.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that Vietnamese battlefield deaths were the lowest since the start of North Vietnam's offensive last March 30.

It was the fourth week since mid-September that the U.S.

Command reported no Americans killed in action.

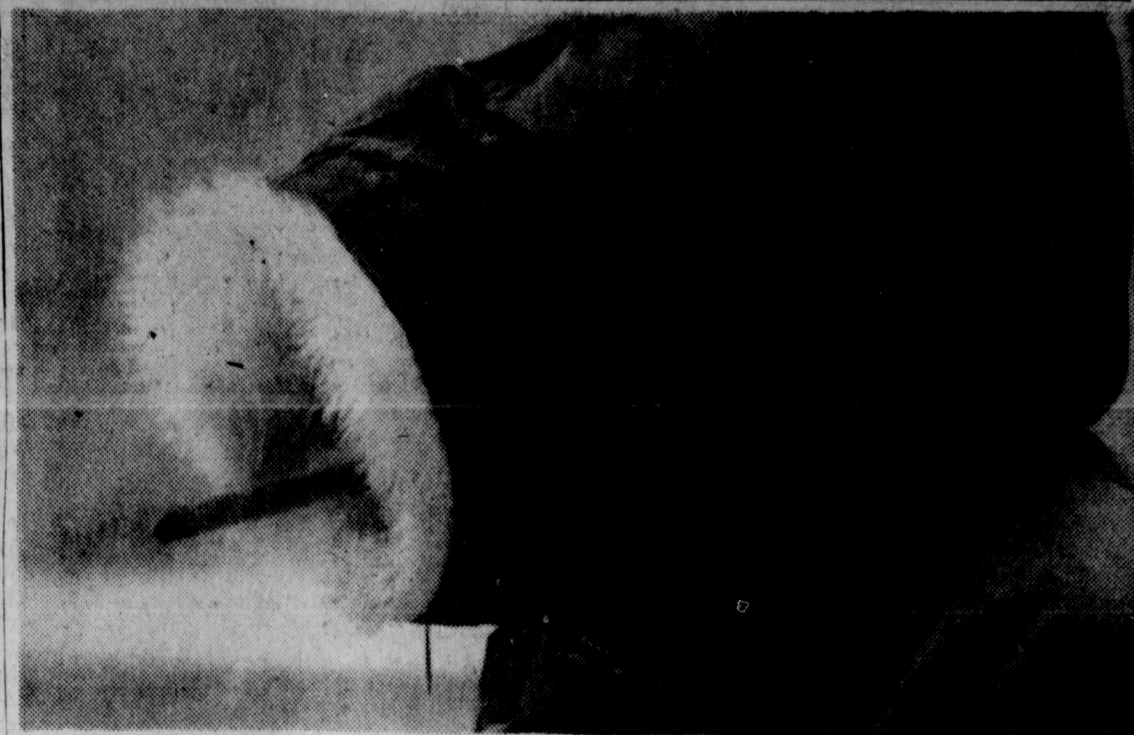

The Saigon command reported 336 South Vietnamese soldiers killed, 1,346 wounded and 47 missing in action last week. It claimed 1,247 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were killed.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

Americans — 45,914 killed in action, 10,290 deaths from non-hostile causes, 303,541 wounded in action, 1,706 missing or captured.

South Vietnamese — 160,711 killed, 427,922 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong — 912,746 killed.

Wife of POW... Hopeful

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Vietnam peace talks drag on, but for the first Christmas in the nearly seven years her husband has been a prisoner of war, Louise Mulligan is willing to hope.

"You get frustrated by the talks. There's nothing you can do," said Mrs. Mulligan, wife of Cmdr. James A. Mulligan, a Navy pilot. "But now I honestly feel the war is going to end by Christmas."

Five weeks ago, when presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger announced that peace was near, Louise and some of the other 21 wives from this coastal Navy town whose husbands are prisoners or missing, reacted with skepticism.

"After enduring years of frustration, disappointment, dashed hopes and rearing children alone, most dared not hope."

"Once a cease-fire is signed, I feel every effort will be made to get the prisoners home as soon as possible. There is tremendous hope among the wives now," Mrs. Mulligan said. "Some of us had just been holding back."

Now, many of the wives are preparing for their husbands' return by painting their homes. Some are buying nightgowns.

Year in and year out they have sent Christmas packages to their men. Most have been returned.

This year, Louise has her husband's present whether he celebrates Christmas at home with his family — or has to again spend it in Hanoi.

"I have one to put under the tree, and one ready to be mailed to him. I'm not taking any chances," she added.

"Something I just realized," she said, "Jim wasn't here for the first trip to the moon and now they are making their last moon exploration shot and he's still not here. He's missed the whole thing."

Mulligan's family of six sons has grown up without him. One has married. Another finishes college this month. And the commander will discover that several of his sons disapprove of the Vietnam war.

So does his wife.

Less than a month ago, Louise received a letter from her husband. "It was one I didn't show the boys," she said. "It was a love letter. Jim never allowed himself to hope before, but this time he said he'd be home for Christmas."

Sailors to Face Courts-Martial

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Nineteen black sailors accused of rioting aboard the carrier Kitty Hawk were ordered Wednesday to face special courts-martial.

Two others were held for pretrial investigation that could lead to more serious general courts-martial.

The move came as a three-man House armed services subcommittee met behind closed doors to investigate the racial disorders and prepared to go aboard the giant carrier today to "lunch" with crewmen.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Floyd V. Hicks, heard testimony Wednesday from Cmdr. Benjamin Cloud, the carrier's executive officer, and Capt. Marland W. Townsend, the ship's commanding officer.

"The testimony was frank and candid," Wicks said. "We are delighted to a considerable extent."

Cloud, who is half black and half Indian, said he denied there were contradictory orders between him and Townsend, during the riot which occurred while the carrier was steaming to Vietnam last October.

Townsend refused to talk about his three and one half hours of testimony.

The fighting continued for three or four hours, the transcript said, and when it was over, 46 crewmen were injured and 21 arrested.

Voltage Line Appeal Turned Down

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The Court of Appeals turned down an appeal Wednesday of the Public Service Commission's ruling approving construction of a 26-mile overhead high voltage line in Orange and Rockland Counties by Consolidated Edison.

In a brief order with no written opinion, the state's highest court rejected the appeal by Orange County and the towns of Wallkill, Hamptonburgh and Mount Hope.

They sought a re-hearing by the PSC, to force Consolidated Edison to put the 345-kilovolt line underground from Ramapo in Rockland County to Roseton, in Orange County.

The high court's action action indicated an unwillingness to get involved in the complicated administrative determination by the PSC.

The local governments had argued the PSC's granting of a certificate of environmental compatibility "was a violation of 'due process' because certain landowners along the route were not notified early enough.

Com Ed said undergrounding the line could cost six times as much as putting it overhead—$76 million versus $13 million.

There was no immediate indication if the governments would appeal to the federal courts, or how soon construction might start because of the Court of Appeals decision.

The PSC finding had been upheld by lower courts.

Rhinebeck Audit... 'No Complaints'

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — With the exception of certain laxity in recording transactions during 1969, the three-year audit of the Town of Rhinebeck's books through Dec. 31, 1971, found little to complain about.

The report was filed Nov. 27, 1972, by H. Turner Graham, examiner in charge, with State Comptroller Arthur Levitt's office and subsequently released to the public.

Rowland M. Sharpe concluded his last term as supervisor Dec. 31, 1969, and the next two years included in the report had William Allen as town supervisor, the incumbent.

The entire composition of the board, with the exception of Allen, who was in 1969 a councilman, has changed during the past four years.

One figure that reflects a certain conservative anticipation of problems is the constantly increasing balance at the close of the year since Allen took office.

From a balance of about $15,000 at the end of 1969 the cushion has increased to some $23,000 in 1970 and about $53,000 at the end of 1971.

Some severe fiscal problems were experienced by the Town Board during the period covered by the beginning of the audit, as the period between Jan. 1 and the collection of tax revenue necessitated some borrowing. This has not seemed to be a problem of late.

A description of the town given in the audit had the 1970 census figure at 5,658, with 2,336 in the village; two fire districts, Hillside and Rhinecliff, besides the village-operated Rhinebeck district.

Assessed valuations for 1971 had real property at about $33 million, with the addition of special franchise and partially and wholly exempt properties bringing the total to about $39 million.

It was noted that the assessment roll was not verified by the assessors on or before Aug. 1 in each year examined, as required by law.

Some of the negative comments follow: Certain claims paid in 1971 were not certified by or on behalf of the claimant. A perpetual inventory of fixed assets was not maintained, as suggested.

In the supervisory department the examination of the books and records of the town supervisor disclosed that highway funds disbursements for the year 1969 were not recorded; the revenue and appropriation ledgers for 1969 highway funds were incomplete; special district cash receipts and disbursements for 1969 were not recorded in the cash book; another court.

supervisor's monthly reports for 1969 were not found on file. Concerning tax collection (which is done by the town clerk), in certain instances it was noted that payments of taxes were accepted after the due date without the penalty due being charged.

In the town justice department, the auditor criticized the fact that certain bail and other monies, collected by both Herman Tietjen and DeWitt Gurnell were not deposited as promptly as they should have been, and some by Tietjen were not deposited, but endorsed to another court.

And certain official records of former justices George Harrington and Clarence Traver were not found on file.

Total indebtedness at the end of 1971 was found to be only $19,000 in the form of bonds. Expenditures were kept within the limits of appropriations in all cases, and compensation paid to officials and employees was at the rates established for the positions and within the available appropriations.

Town residents may review the three-year audit at the town clerk's office.

Red Hook Hearing Scheduled

RED HOOK — The public will be heard on whether or not it wants a 15-acre shopping plaza just south of the Village of Red Hook at a public hearing at 9:45 p.m., Dec. 12.

The meeting, at the town hall, will deal with several other subjects brought before the Red Hook Town Zoning Board of Appeals, but the shopping center is drawing the attention.

The Dutchess County Department of Planning has come out against the proposal in a five-point summary, according to a spokesman.

Plans given to the Red Hook Board of Appeals call for about 135,000 square feet of stores and parking for 920 cars. Included in this plan are a department store of 68,000 square feet, a supermarket, bank, several small shops, and service station or restaurant, with a total investment of up to $1 million.

Developers are expected to provide more details on their plans at the public hearing at the town hall Wednesday.

There are presently no shopping centers north of Hyde Park in Dutchess County open for business.

'Religious Sect' Leader Sentenced to Prison

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A man who claims he is the leader of a religious sect called the Sudan Muslims has been sentenced to 15 years in prison for second-degree manslaughter.

Judge Hyman T. Mas of Monroe County Court netted out the sentence Wednesday to Robert Strong of Rochester.

Strong, who said his Muslim name is Omar Ali Sheriff, was convicted last October on the manslaughter charge in the death of a follower, Kenneth Goings, 25, of Rochester.

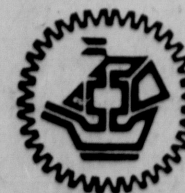

During the trial the prosecution said Goings suffered fatal knife wounds during a religious ritual conducted by Strong last Jan. 28 in Rochester.

Goings' body was found in a creek near Buffalo almost a month later.

11 important things to double check when using a checking account

1. Keep checkbook and blank checks in safe place (at home and in office). Never keep them in the car.
2. Carry only the number of checks you expect to use while shopping.
3. Make certain your wallet or pocketbook is securely in your possession at all times while shopping.
4. Notify the bank immediately if you find any checks missing, or if you have ordered new blank checks and they are overdue in arriving.
5. Number your checks consecutively to agree with the "stubs." (Marine Midland personalized checks come with imprinted consecutive numbers.) Reconcile your bank statement and cancelled checks immediately—and notify the bank of any discrepancy.
6. When writing a check, name a specific person or company as payee in the space marked "Pay to the order of." Then, when the check is cashed, it will become your receipt of payment.
7. Write the amount of the check in figures as close to the dollar sign as possible, so that no figures can be inserted between the dollar sign and the first number.
8. Write the amount in words as far to the left as possible, so no one can raise the amount by adding words. Always fill the unused space with a wavy line of ink.
9. Be patient when a clerk or teller is taking the proper time to cash a check for the person ahead of you . . . or you. This is to protect everyone—including you.
10. Don't endorse a check until you present it for payment, because an endorsed check is like cash. If you lose it, or it's stolen, it's gone.
11. If you cash checks for others . . . KNOW YOUR ENDORSER. Ask questions about the check you're cashing. After all, it's your money at stake. Forgers work fast—they have to. But don't be rushed!

This is one of a series of consumer information topics presented by Marine Midland Bank.

Route 28 and Ontario

Through rain or snow or sleet of hail, will Ontario Schools close? So what if six inches of snow is on Route 28. I myself live in Shandaken where a bulk of snow falls during winter. The roads in West Hurley may be clear, but just go 15 miles north and watch out. So what if the lives of the students of our northern part of our district are endangered. Does Ontario have to hear 40 other schools close in our area to follow the trend? I am not speaking of all the days it snows, but on December 1st, 1972 there were a good 3-4 inches of hand packed snow on Route 28 north of Phenicia, and it is still snowing at 7:20 a.m. I would think Ontario Central Schools would learn from the bus accident of a year ago. Do they have to have some students injured seriously or killed to open their eyes?

I would advise the administrators of Ontario Central Schools to take into consideration that we have the second largest busing district in New York State. So next time think twice when it snows!

Questions Cartoon

Editor, The Freeman:

In The Freeman on Monday the 27th of Nov. you had a cartoon on the editorial page. The cartoon was drawn and the caption written by a person named Crawford. I have seen this name many times before and I believe it is a syndicated cartoon.

Now to the point. It depicts Teddy Kennedy getting measured by a tailor. The tape measure is around his waist.

The caption above says: "A new wardrobe for the next four years?" He and the tailor are looking at jackets hanging on a rack. Words are on each jacket such as drugs, violence, Vietnam, abortion, etc. I would like some help in knowing what this all means. I think I know. I believe that Kennedy is interested in these issues and that he will sincerely try to do something about them. I do not believe that the cartoonist saw it or meant it so. I wished he did.

There are too many politicians that didn't make it in the elections that you do not hear about any more. I supported some of them. Some of them were local. They spent a lot of money and time in the running and they lost and now they are lost dogs far into the woods and unheard of. They false ideology. We must don't bark no more. At least we will hear from Teddy Kennedy in the next 4 years.

Sincerely,

Cites Two Threats

I am writing a few words with the hopes of helping over one hundred million victims of communism and socialism in Europe. I know that sometimes the people in the United States are a little lax about fighting against the threat of Communist and Socialist world domination. The threat of Socialist domination is greater than most believe or realize; as they appeal to the suffering minorities for support for their false ideology. We must remember that the Nazis developed from the German Socialists. At one time the Nazis had burned a group of French villagers alive. There was similar bestiality in Poland and Czechoslovakia. The Fascists derived from the Italian Socialists and one of their crimes was the genocide inflicted on some Slavs in Europe. Almost twenty five million people died during the last war or from causes due to the war. That's why I support the idea of ending Communism and Socialism. With deepest gratitude and humility I wish to express my best wishes for the future of the United States and the better United States.

Sincerely,

Help POWs-MIAs

Editor, The Freeman:

As peace talks continue and our nation looks forward to the day of peace, the plight of POWs and MIAs becomes more urgent and vital with each passing day. 1816 men do not know what their future holds. The families of these men do not know either.

For 8½ years the families of the POWs-MIAs have been asking the government of Hanoi for the life status of these men. They ask the Communists one simple question, "Are they dead or alive?" Now with the possibility of peace just around the corner they are still asking this question and the Communists still refuse to let them know.

We must demand a full accounting of our POWs-MIAs. The families of these men are very well aware of what took place after the Korean War in 1953. 389 known prisoners of war were never accounted for. Therefore, these men never saw their families again. Nineteen years later and the Communists refuse to discuss the fate of these men.

There are many varied personal views of the Vietnam War as to its purpose, morality, and to the terms of settlement. But we should be united in our concern for the Missing in Action and the Prisoners of War. My conscience will not allow for a repeat of Korea. The conscience of this nation should not allow for another repeat of Korea. 1816 POW-MIAs must be accounted for NOW.

Please help. The Americanism Committee and Concerned Citizens for POWs-MIAs are working in cooperation with the National League of Families of POWs-MIAs. They need funds to help them identify their loved ones. Send contributions to:

Controlled Forest Burning

The Sunday, Nov. 19, 1972 issue of The Daily Freeman presented an interesting, yet provocative, article called "Let Burn Policy on Forest Fires" and the writer would hope that this may help to encourage others to write regarding this devilish proposal.

Having worked and played in the fields and forests all my life, and having been employed in the growing and planting of trees and shrubs ever since graduating from Cornell University with a B.S. in Horticulture in 1929, and having at the same time an avocation in the name of conservation, this writer feels that he has a real right to say what he believes.

The writer happens to have been, for the past 25 years or more, a delegate from the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster Co., N.Y. to the N.Y. State Conservation Council representing Conservation Clubs and Sportsmen's Clubs from all over N.Y. This group has consistently protected and defended our natural resources, and as late as September of this year voted solidly in favor of the bond issue to further protect our resources.

It would seem that that the inane reasons for the "Let Burn Policy" as given in the above mentioned article, and by the writer, A.P. Science writer C.G. McDaniel, were, not his but rather those of the service involved. He is to be thanked for bringing all this to our attention. Anything as important to all of us as this is should long ago have brought about a series of public hearings. We need to look very deeply into the backgrounds of those persons who have so blatantly violated their public responsibilities.

Let's ask our Congressmen to get the full details.

Even some of our own N.Y. State Department of Environmental Conservation personell have been so brainwashed as to say that controlled burning could result in more food for deer. Maybe it would, but so would skilled pruning and thinning, and this I know from personal experience, and it would not at the same time destroy the waterholding capacity of the forests not even to mention all the small woodland creatures and even bacteria that are so sorely needed to help maintain the balance of nature.

Some of the so-called forestry experts are surely more interested in securing for the lumber and timber industries more profits at less expense. And who pays the bill. The taxpayers.

In The Wall Street Journal of Oct. 20, 1972 one of those who recommends this procedure is quoted as "A Forestry expert and director of The Tall Timbers Research Station, a private non-profit fire ecology laboratory in Florida. Why shouldn't a private eye recommend this procedure for his bosses? The Wall Street Journal and Staff Reporter N.R. Kleinfeld likewise deserve the thanks of all of us for helping to uncover this mess.

Some of these experts should have added, "man seeking more profit at less cost continues to violate nature." And that's a fact.

Then we read too that our National Park Service is also interested in this slaughter. Sure, they want to make it easier for people to hike through the forests. If these folks want to hike, and we know hiking is enjoyed by many, they better read up on the trails of Daniel Boone. We just can't have forests and water conservation and still have a boardwalk through our woods.

We should all ask our Congressmen, Who made the original determination of "Let Burn Policy" in The Forest Service? Was there ever a public hearing on this? What are we paying taxes for? Are we just trying to protect big business?

It appears that all this revolves around a simple question. Do we want dictatorial government, or do we insist on making our own decisions after being completely informed? Personally I feel that we have been misinformed and by some publicly paid officials.

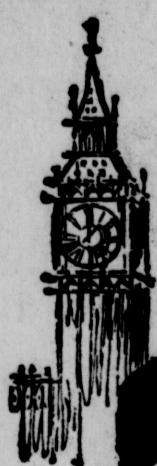

Write your Congressmen, get the facts and make up your own minds.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 7, 1972

WASHINGTON — There are no more staunch champions of law and order than those two old curmudgeons from South Carolina, Sen. Strom Thurmond and Rep. John McMillan. But when it comes to traffic offenses, they don't believe the laws apply to themselves or their friends.

For 24 years, McMillan used his position as chairman of the District of Columbia Committee to fix traffic tickets for his cronies on Capitol Hill. He even took care of tickets issued to his old chief in the House dining room and the man who attended him in the House gym.

Leading the parade of those who came to McMillan to get tickets fixed was stern, straight Strom Thurmond.

The Washington police seldom ticket a senator, since he might later vote on police pay raises. But they used issue polite warning notices.

Even these were regarded as an affront to his senatorial dignity by old Strom, who a few years ago asked McMillan to instruct the police to stop annoying him with warning notices.

McMillan obligingly demanded an explanation from William J. Livermore, then the director of the traffic division, who replied apologetically: "Quite often our officers are placed in a position where several violation notices to all except those bearing Congressional or Diplomatic tags can result in complaints and criticism, which might be embarrassing to someone.

"The fact that each car parked in violation received some type of citation appears to keep down the complaints... However, I wish to assure you that we will be guided by your wishes in this matter."

McMillan's Wishes

McMillan's wishes were to stop the warning notices and they were obediently stopped. Indeed, his slightest wish was treated as a command by the police, who fixed hundreds of tickets at his requests. Parking, jaywalking and moving violations alike were torn up when McMillan intervened.

Once he got a ticket himself in Columbia, S. C., where he had less clout with the police. So he wrote to the mayor asking him to fix the ticket. McMillan offered, in return, to take care of him "any time you get a ticket when you are in Washington."

We have uncovered dozens of his letters to Livermore, written during 1970s. "The enclosed ticket," he wrote in a typical letter, "was given to the son of Congressman William R. Hull III of Missouri. The Congressman is my closest friend on Capitol Hill."

"I know," wrote McMillan about a speeding violation, "99 per cent of the people drive faster than 32 mph, and if they did not we would be 1 to 2 hours getting home every evening."

Another time, he explained, "one of these tickets was placed on a South Carolinian's car at midnight when he stopped in a bus zone for a few minutes, and I am certain no bus was using the zone at this time."

In behalf of a ticketed tourist, McMillan wrote: "I hope you can have this ticket adjusted, since we are continuing to encourage people throughout the U.S. to visit the nation's capital."

Even his colleagues' constituents could get their tickets fixed through McMillan. After taking care of a ticket for former Rep. Bob Ashmore, D-S. C., for example, McMillan wrote magnanimously: "I am pleased to advise you that I was successful in having the Park Police adjust the ticket given to your constituent while he was visiting the Washington Monument."

Mr. Mac as he was known to his staff, has now been turned out of office by the voters in South Carolina. He'll be sorely missed by his cronies when they get caught violating the traffic laws.

Fancy Command Post

The Price Commission, established to hold down inflation, imposes economics on others while it indulges in extravaganzas itself.

The commission has just lavished $85,000 on itself for a new meeting room. In dramatic effect, it rivals the Pentagon's celebrated war room.

Down the hall from the chairman's office is the new windowless, fully carpeted, richly paneled, soundproof room. It is every bit as spectacular as the command post in the TV space-fiction series, Star Trek.

Seven slide projectors, complete with screens and console, give the room the feel of a spaceship. Six of the screens and their consoles line the back of the room in a semicircle. Another far larger screen dominates the front wall.

The commissioners sit around a large, L-shaped fancy wooden table in color-coordinated swivel chairs. When the slide show starts, the screens can fill up with everything from the Price Commission's agenda for the day to the potential growth of an industry — all presented in six different ways.

The slide equipment alone cost $35,000. A spokesman explained that the projectors present information so quickly and efficiently that the commissioners need not meet as often as other agency heads, who still shuffle papers back and forth at their meetings.

"Fall In!"

Ray Cromley Says

Execs Sabotage Nixon

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A relatively small group of willful men scattered in key positions through the government have for almost four years actively sabotaged the programs sponsored by their President.

In the main, these are holdovers from the Kennedy administration and still emotionally loyal to the late president, men who believed at the start that Mr. Nixon would be a one-term president and that his administration and all its works would pass. These men stand in contrast to their more dedicated brothers. The problem is that they hold posts through which they can harm programs with which they do not agree.

Some of these men are outside the civil service and can be removed without too much difficulty. Some are section or division chiefs within the higher service grades and can be shifted from their key posts only by abolishing the positions or transferring the men to other tasks. Theoretically, an obstructionist could be fired for incompetence. But in practice this is virtually impossible to accomplish.

In office after office men and women have reported to this writer in some detail the behind-the-scenes planning aimed at slowing down or blocking President Nixon's favored projects. In private staff meetings, supervisors have waxed eloquent in sarcasm aimed at the President's innovations. Some loyal men have been forced, in self protection, to hide their loyalties.

Some Nixon appointees, in fact, have been forced out of key positions because entrenched opposition in their offices made it impossible for them to accomplish anything. They could have stayed on, at high salaries, writing endless memoranda, doing makework assigned by immediate superiors determined that no administration man would be allowed to operate effectively. White House aides found that intervention was useless; the supervisor said "yes sir" and went about business as usual.

Even where Nixon men have dominated a section or an agency, they have sometimes found their plans could be blocked effectively by anti-administration men in other agencies.

This reporter talked at length a few days ago with the deputy chief of one important agency, given sizable new tasks by the White House, an organization which, to be effective, must work in close harness with 50 states and several federal agencies. The program is imaginative and highly needed. It will make possible the year-round use of facilities and personnel heretofore geared only to war. But accomplishments have been extremely disappointing to date. Most states are cooperating. But government infighting between agencies has slowed effectiveness.

The fault in part is Mr.

Nixon's. When President Kennedy came to office, he quickly cleared the decks, reaching far down into government, ousting entrenched officials and inserting his own men. He was not absolutely successful, but far more so than President Nixon, in exerting his will over his departments.

In passing, it may be noted that when President Johnson took over, he was reluctant to make many changes. Lately he has reported his administration thereby suffered deeply from disloyal men in rather high places, even in the White House, working against him and his objectives.

President Nixon, though he took steps to insure a loyal staff, did not come to office prepared to sweep so far as President Kennedy. He discovered all too late that if there is not a sweep out at the beginning of a term, then a cleanup is virtually impossible. Opposition men have too much time to burrow in. Weeding out is time consuming.

One problem was that at the start Mr. Nixon's recruiters were not prepared. They did not come with an adequate portfolio of known able and loyal personnel to fill the thousands of slots which needed filling. So it was that, one way or another, considerable numbers of men stayed on who were loyal to his predecessors and not him.

In part, it is these men the President now aims at weeding out.

Marquis Childs Says

A Reporter's Wrong Decision

GRANITE CITY, Ill. — The sergeant-at-arms is much too clever for you, having already bolted the doors from the outside. Now, therefore, let me tell you about my operation.

It is primeval India-ink blackness in this parking lot on the Saturday night before the election. George McGovern is about to speak. Will it be the same oration he gave earlier in the day in Chicago, Waco, Corpus Christi, Little Rock and St. Louis?

It might be different, says the reporter in my soul against the wiser counsel of the goldbrick shirking within. You really ought to get out of the press bus and go listen to the candidate.

Three hospitals and 19 postoperative days later, I think it was the wrong decision.

In the parking lot lay an obstacle, cloaked in darkness, that sent a double-hundredweight projectile crashing onto the left elbow. It was a bizarre flight, or so thought the nuns of St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Granite City. One of the Sisters of Divine Providence there suggested I take a look at my arm. "It's Z-shaped," she said.

The hospital staff thought that medical treatment as well as Divine Providence might straighten things out. For that they sent me by ambulance to Jewish Hospital in St. Louis.

"This may hurt a bit," the doc said, "because your elbow is dislocated and we're going to reset it." He imported two teams of oxen to do it, then suggested that the best place for further treatment was the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston where the best man in the bone business was Dr. Carter Rowe.

The X-rays showed that the radial bone (known in sadistic circles as the funny bone) was shattered beyond repair. In the X-rays it didn't look like a chip or two; it looked like the Milky Way.

Dr. Rowe's orthopedic prowess has brought his scalpel upon famous athletes, including Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins. This distinction won me sudden respect among nieces and nephews and gave me appreciation for athletic pain.

Orr's left knee also gave me vicarious hope of glory and recovery, something every sidelined amateur athlete needs. When Washington's favorite sportscaster, Warner Wolf of WTOP-TV, was injured, he ruptured an Achilles tendon, the same mishap suffered by Redskins quarterback Sonny Jurgensen.

In the annals of left elbows the most fabled was that of Ted Williams, who shattered his in Comiskey Park during the 1950 All-Star game. His autobiography says that he's glad that the surgeons only took out the bone chips. If they removed the whole bone (as they did to me) it would have meant "permanent disability."

Thanks a lot, Ted. At least you were injured going for a line drive by Ralph Kiner, not a speech by George McGovern.

But Bobby Orr is back and so are the Bruins. My new handball gloves, a hospital gift of my former friend Healy, sit unused. Dr. Rowe has his doubts about a rapid return to the handball court, at least with a left hand. But he doesn't know how singularly graceless my left hand was before the handball career was interrupted.

The nurses and everybody at Mass. General remark on how unfamously polite and cordial was patient Orr. It's no surprise, since people at the hospital have been providing that kind of service since 1811.

The view of the Charles River was handsome, with several weeks to ponder how American medical service is much more humane in the particular than in the abstract.

The medication allowed no political parables, except one. If I have to become more of a right-winger, recuperation may take four more years.

Conservation Session Planned

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation will hold a public hearing Dec. 28 at 11 a.m. at the West Hurley Firehouse on plans to construct a water distribution system to serve the Pleasant Ridge Estates subdivision on Route 375 between West Hurley and Woodstock. An application has been filed with the DEC by Hudson Valley Water Companies, Inc. to construct the water system.

Area Young Marines Wreath Sale Underway

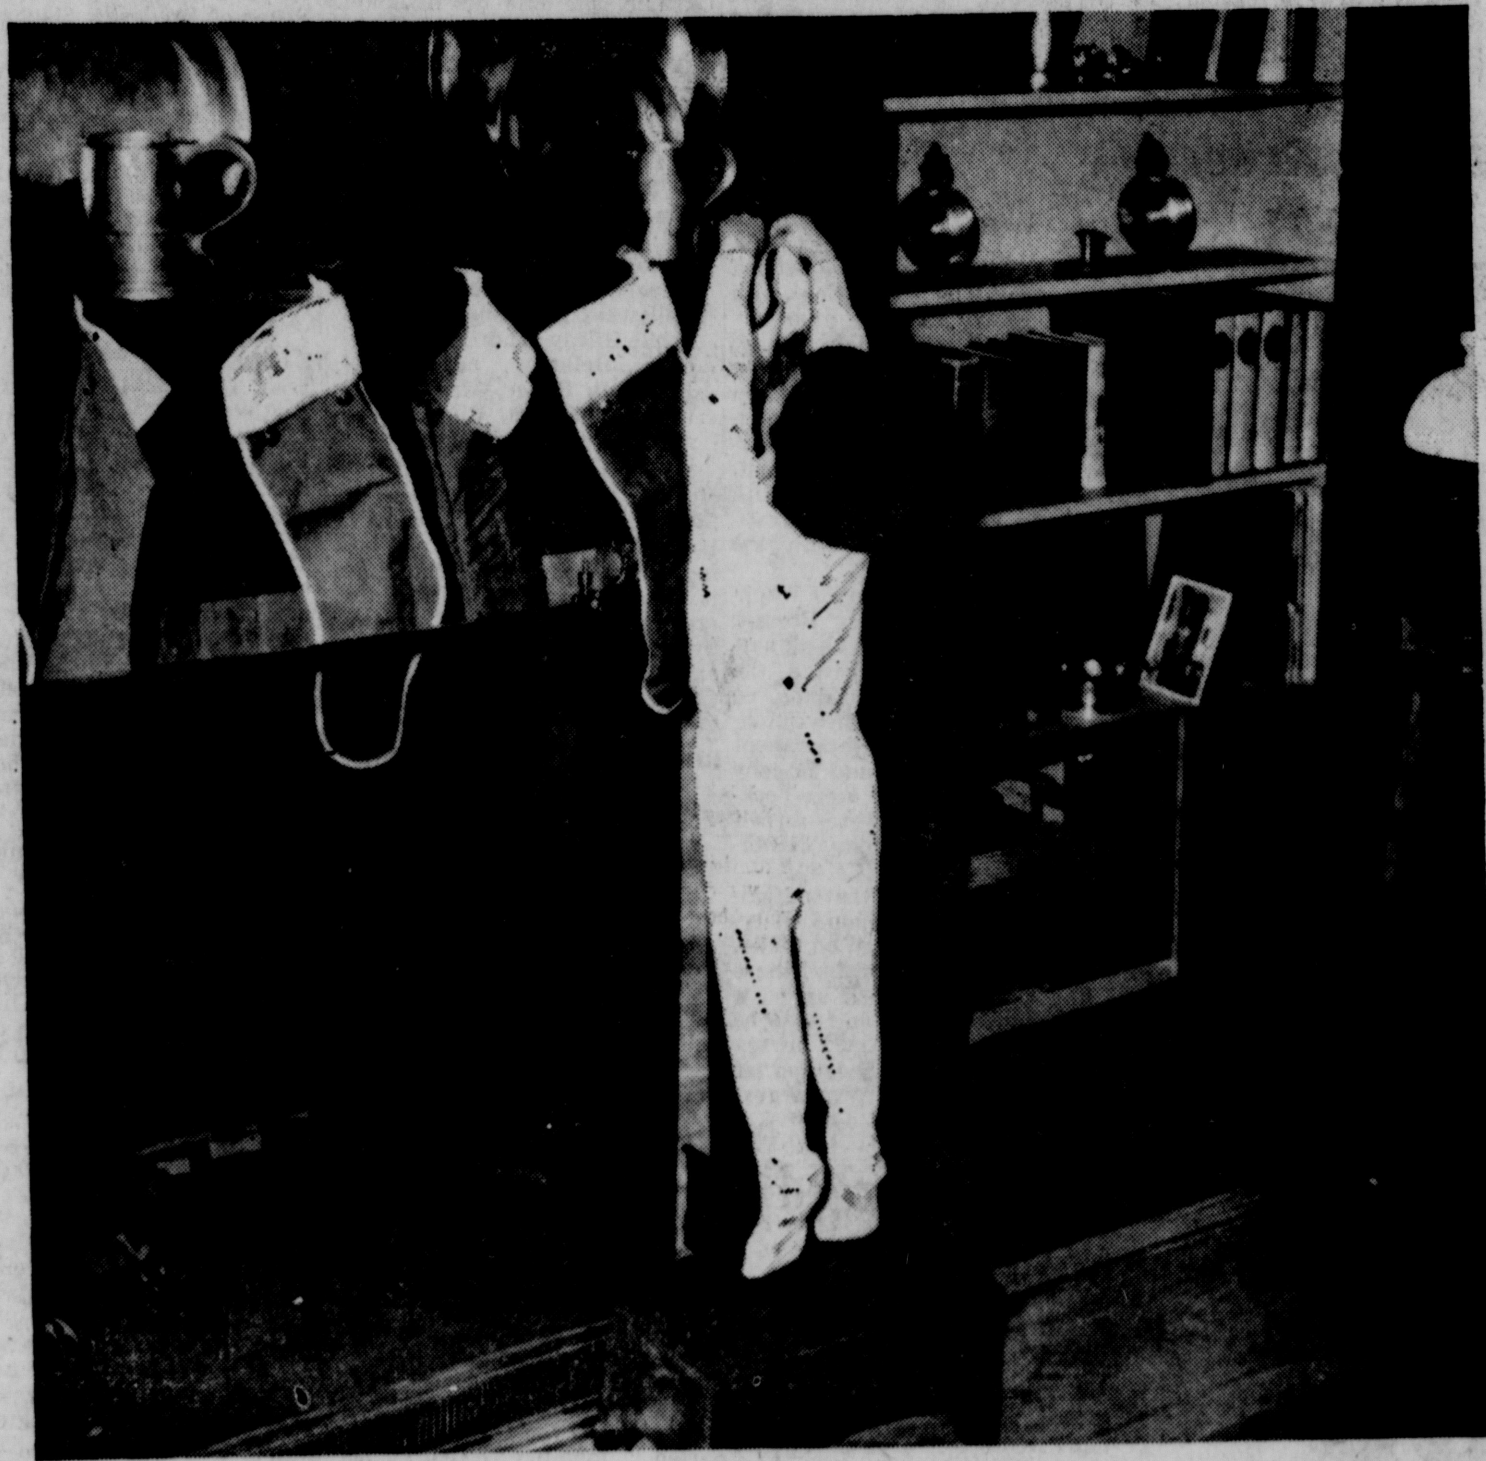

KINGSTON operation, the Young Marines will conduct a recruiting drive in January for boys between 8 and 11 years old. John Ray Mayone, Young Marine Commanding Officer, said there will be a sad note in all Young Marine activities this year as the Bulldog mascot, PFC Jiggs met with a fatal accident over the weekend.

According to the DEC, the public hearing is intended to determine whether the proposed plans are justified by public necessity, whether they provide for the proper protection against contamination of the watershed, and whether they provide for the proper and safe construction of all work involved.

All persons and corporations who wish to speak at the public hearing must file notice with the Department of Environmental Conservation by Dec. 18. If there are objections to the plan, they must be stipulated in the notice to the DEC.

If no notice of appearance in opposition to the proposed plan is filed with the DEC, the department may dispense with the public hearing and proceed to consider the application.

St. Lawrence River Bridge Draws Fire From Two Sides

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A bridge over the St. Lawrence River has come under fire from the state attorney general's office and the Department of Environmental Conservation.

Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz announced today that his office has applied in Supreme Court in Jefferson County for an injunction requiring the removal of the bridge and causeway, located between the village of Clayton and Washington Island.

The complaint charges that the structure, built by Thousand Islands Development Enterprises Inc., a real estate development firm headquartered in Jefferson County, was constructed without the permits required, and that it creates an obstacle to free passage on the river.

A statement from Lefkowitz's office said the erection of the bridge "constitutes brazen seizure and defilement of public property which the state will not tolerate."

The complaint was originated at the request of the Environmental Conservation Department. Lefkowitz said before such a structure can be constructed permits must be obtained from the New York State Power Authority, the state Office of General Services and the Environmental Conservation Department.

He further noted that the bridge does not display signal or warning lights required by the U.S. Coast Guard. He said the bridge is blocking river's course, and is causing boat traffic, is disturbing the deposits of silt and debris.

The company is located at General Stanley Fishman and 229 John St. The case is being handled by Assistant Attorneys 31 Years Ago Today . . .

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — It was 31 years ago today when planes from a Japanese carrier armada crippled the U.S. Pacific Fleet here, but the anniversary of the attack is being observed quietly.

One scheduled event to mark the day was the lowering of colors at sunset and a wreath laying aboard the USS Arizona memorial by 20 members of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association. No speeches were planned.

The Navy, which planned no ceremonies for this year, said the normal one-hour weekday boat tours of the harbor and the shuttle boats to the memorial will be conducted as usual.

Veterans organizations and private citizens were invited by the Navy, however, to present wreaths at the memorial during the day. The site of the attack, which shocked Americans on Dec. 7, 1941, and brought the United States into World War II, today is a point of interest to the thousands of Japanese tourists who visit the islands in greater numbers each year.

Mayor Declares Free Parking

KINGSTON Mayor Francis R. Koenig has declared free holiday parking at all the city's metered parking spaces and parking lots, the week of Dec. 17-23. The Uptown Parking Garage on North Front Street is not included, Koenig said. The Uptown Businessmen's Association, meeting in regular session on Wednesday, goes along with Koenig to a degree. "We're not pushing for free parking at the meters because of the congestion in the streets and the fact that some people would take advantage of it," Glen Stampfle, president of the UBA told The Freeman.

Stampfle thinks that "free parking" would be effectuated (at least at the Parking Garage) by the merchants validating of parking tickets from the garage. That, apparently will be the case, with free parking on the streets and in the city's parking lots and paid parking at the parking garage this Christmas season.

Two Sentenced For Loitering

SAUGERTIES

Paulette Hobson, 23, of 192 Grove Avenue, White Plains, and Allan Slade, 36, of Hackensack, N. J., pleaded guilty Wednesday to loitering charges before Town of Kingston Justice Robert Ferrigan and were sentenced to time already served in the Ulster County Jail.

The two were arrested in a burglary at the Markmiller TV Sales and Service, Ulster Avenue, Saugerties, on the morning of Nov. 29 and had been held in jail while State Police probed their possible connection with the burglary. A third man arrested the same day, Harry Otis Medlock, 43, of 100 West 117th Street, New York City failed to appear before Ferrigan Wednesday night and a warrant was issued for his arrest. He also had been charged with loitering and was being investigated in connection with the Markmiller burglary.

BCI Investigator David Wachtel and Trooper Craig Bremer of State Police zone headquarters in Hurley rearrested the Hobson woman and Slade on warrants issued by the Dutchess County Sheriff's Department on burglary and grand larceny charges. The two were confined to jail and were turned over to Dutchess County authorities today.

State Police said that a fugitive warrant from Union County, N. J., had been served on Slade, who allegedly jumped bail there while awaiting sentencing on a burglary charge. Slade will be turned over to New Jersey authorities after disposition of the Dutchess County charges, police said.

Youth Charged With Assault

KINGSTON

A Kingston youth, bound over to the Grand Jury yesterday on kidnapping, robbery and grand larceny charges, was arrested early today by Kingston detectives and charged with second degree assault.

Ronald Lee Baggett, also known as Michael Harden, 17, of 17 Hone Street, was arrested by Detectives Albert Hutton and Joseph Feraca along with a companion, Willie Redd, 16, of 5 Wurts Street, who also was charged with second degree assault in connection with the same incident.

Baggett and Redd allegedly attacked John Parvi, 60, of Box 167D, Kingston as he walked along Abiel Street on the night of Nov. 23. Parvi was taken to Benedictine Hospital for treatment following the attack, police said.

Baggett was arrested Nov. 25 on information furnished by Mrs. Elizabeth Fabysack of Port Ewen, who reportedly identified him from a police lineup as the person who seized her in a car in front of her home after a trip to Kingston and ordered her to drive back into Kingston.

Baggett was charged with second degree kidnapping, first degree robbery, and grand larceny (car theft) after he allegedly took money from Mrs. Fabysack's purse and drove her car away shortly after she jumped from the vehicle on Abiel Street.

Baggett's attorney, Charles J. Saccaman, moved Wednesday for a dismissal on all three charges for lack of evidence at a preliminary hearing before City Judge Hubert A. Richter. The motions were denied and Baggett was released in $10,000 bail to await Grand Jury action.

Fleeting Fame

TITUSVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — "For meritorious mourning service and unsurpassed attendance at funeral homes," Willie Hunter three years ago was awarded a trophy by Crawford County's funeral directors. He had attended 3,000 funerals. Hunter, 66, died Saturday and was buried with his trophy. Nine persons attended his funeral.

First Gal on GM Board

No Token for Women's Lib

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—As the first woman elected to the General Motors board of directors, Catherine Cleary isn't about to sit back and be a token for women's lib.

And the soft-spoken Miss Cleary says she is sure GM doesn't expect her to assume that role, even though she thinks her sex played a part in her selection.

"I'm sure it did," she said in an interview. "I think everybody knows that corporations are looking for women and minority people and other groups that haven't traditionally been on the boards."

"On the other hand, I believe, and I think that General Motors and these other corporations believe, anyone who is invited to serve on their board has to have the background and experience to function effectively as a director."

"I wouldn't be interested in being on a board just to be a symbol and I wouldn't do it if once I learned about the corporation I found I couldn't make a contribution to the function of the board."

Miss Cleary is president of the First Wisconsin Trust Co., here and the GM board position is merely the most prestigious of several she holds, including ones with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., and the Kraftco Corp.

She is also a trustee and member of the executive committee of the Northwest Mutual Life Insurance Co., made her one of the nation's most widely known woman business executives.

A native of Madison, Wis., Miss Cleary joined the First Wisconsin Trust in 1947 as an worked her way up through a number of executive positions. She also served as an assistant treasurer of the United States and assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury from 1953 to 1954.

Miss Cleary became a director of First Wisconsin Trust in 1963 and president in 1969. A graduate of the University of Chicago, she taught school for a year and then entered the University of Wisconsin law school with highest honors in 1943.

Her father, the late Michael J. Cleary, once was president of Northwestern Mutual Life.

Miss Cleary, 55, doesn't see her election to the GM board as a triumph for women's liberation, but more the result of long, hard work. She also says this is a good time for women in business.

"I think it is very difficult to value all the forces of work, but my own feeling is that there is experienced people in all kinds of work," she said. "That's true of government; it is true in education; and it is true in many areas as well as business."

"We're constantly looking to find people with the kind of experience we need and I think this broke down the barriers before the days of this very aggressive women's liberation."

"There are more opportunities for women now than there are women trained and qualified to take those opportunities."

"You take my case. I came into the trust company 25 years ago and I worked long and hard and loved every minute. Every year opened something I hadn't done before. But a lot of younger people today wouldn't be interested in the kind of work that called for this long term commitment."

Women have been getting a lot of bad advice, she said.

"I remember not too many years ago when the School of Commerce at the University of Wisconsin advised women not to major in finance because there wouldn't be any opportunity for them. This was terrible advice even at that time," Miss Cleary said.

"I think the opportunity has been there, but there isn't any question that around the turn of the century, if a woman wanted to work, the only thing she was told she could do was to go into music or something. We've certainly seen a constant widening of attitudes on the part of both men and women."

Fathers' Attitude

This was true even of her own father, she said.

"I was the oldest child and I think that he was surprised when I wanted to go to law school. But he said go ahead and try it and I think he was delighted I did well in school, and I'm sure this had an effect on his attitude. He was a very generous, broadminded person who loved people, but it really hadn't occurred to him," she said.

Did she run into problems gaining acceptance because she was a woman?

"I've been in banking 25 years and I haven't felt I've really been discriminated against either in opportunity or salaries or titles or anything else," she said. "But different persons have different experiences."

Miss Cleary said she escapes the pressure of big business by spending a few days at her cottage on Lake Michigan, where she passes the time watching birds, walking, and carrying in the wood for the fireplace.

"I also do needlepoint," she said. "I do double-cross stitch. I read a fair amount. I travel when I get the chance."

There was one embarrassing element to her election to the GM board: she was driving the product of another automotive company at the time. That has since changed.

"I happened to have been driving a Ford," she said with a smile, "but obviously, if I'm going to be working with General Motors, I'm going to be driving a General Motors car."

COMPANY—Sgt. Charles Knight of Coos Bay, Oregon police force, holds door of his patrol cruiser open for his wife, Cheryl, as they prepare to go on patrol. Coos Bay police chief, Rollie Pean said the program isn't unique, "but it's new to us." "The wives will accompany their husbands on patrol to gain an insight into duties and responsibilities her officer-husband is expected to face while on duty. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

And Yvonne... Feels the Same

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, the first black congresswoman from the West, says she's eager to enter "the smoke-filled rooms" in Washington but "not as just a wallflower or token decoration."

The attractive, vivacious and chic California state assemblywoman, who is 40 but looks much younger, made her first splash on the national political scene in July when she deftly wielded the gavel at the Democratic National Convention before millions of television viewers.

When the new Congress convenes, she and her long-time friend, Barbara Jordan, a Texas state senator, will become the second and third black Congresswomen in history, joining Rep. Shirley Chisholm of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Burke, who breezed to a Nov. 7 victory over a white conservative in a district bordering on Watts—where she witnessed the 1965 riots—intends to carve an image distinctly different from that of the New York Democrat.

"I'll never be another Shirley Chisholm," she said in an interview.

Instead of seeking the national spotlight on dramatic issues, the recently re-married Congresswoman plans to concentrate on the nut-and-bolt measures she considers important to her district.

Commercial development of inner cities, housing, child care centers and increased benefits to domestic workers.

"I don't believe in grandstanding," said the daughter of a movie studio laborer. "But in the poverty areas, if there is something we need, then I'll go after it."

Unlike Mrs. Chisholm, Mrs. Burke feels she has been discriminated against more as a black than as a woman.

"My life is ridden with a great deal of racial discrimination," she said. "The really terrible times are when you aren't served in a restaurant because you are black or when you can't find decent housing."

"However, women in the past have had a difficult time in moving into the smoke-filled rooms of politics."

"If the decisions are made in smoke-filled rooms, that's where I want to be, and not just as a wallflower or token decoration."

The poised, elegant Mrs. Burke, who was elected California's first black woman legislator in 1966, said becoming a Congresswoman will be the apex of her political career. "I have no great aspirations. I really didn't envision myself as having a long-time political career."

But that may be deceiving. Before she ran for the Assembly, she said her highest ambition was to be elected to the local school board.

Mrs. Burke attributes much of her political success to luck. Take the selection of her as vice chairman of the Democratic National Convention, for example:

"I was lucky. When the women's caucus demanded a woman vice chairman and the black caucus demanded a black, they began looking all over the country for a black woman. They found me."

A trial lawyer by profession, she has a penchant for details and has authored bills in the Assembly on such topics as eminent domain, acquisition of land by public entities and garnishments.

As chairman of the Urban Development and Housing Committee, she also authored measures outlawing racial discrimination in awarding contracts for state construction; providing relocation assistance to tenants and owners of homes taken by government; and setting up free child-care centers on college campuses.

Nurses Registry... New Area Service

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON A private nurses registry, providing 24-hour nursing service to residents throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley, has begun operations from an office in Kingston.

Tri-Cities Nurses Registry, Inc. is actually a branch of the nurses registry of the same name located in Schenectady. The local agency will utilize local Registered Nurses and Licensed Practical Nurses to provide home or hospital care for the aged or infirm in a 50-mile radius surrounding Kingston.

The local registry received its license from New York State last week. It maintains an office at 277 Fair Street; its calls are handled by an answering service on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

According to Mrs. Florence Hyatt, R.N., manager of the Kingston agency, the local nurses registry has a two-fold purpose: to provide competent and professional nursing coverage to patients at home, in a hospital or a private residence, and to give nurses unable to work full-time the opportunity to utilize their skills and knowledge on a part-time basis.

The registry's greatest asset is to coordinate the activities of the more than 100 private nurses in the Kingston area with the needs of individual patients. Rather than thumb through the phone book in search of a private nurse, patients now need only call the registry. The necessary arrangements will be made immediately.

There is much that happens behind the scenes, however, to expedite the patient's request for nursing service.

All of the nurses who are members of the registry are first interviewed and screened by Mrs. Hyatt, Mrs. Elaine Levine, R.N. (her assistant) and Mrs. Mary Dudla, director of placement personnel. Those who do not meet the standards of the registry cannot become members.

When she joins the registry, each nurse indicates the times she is able or willing to work. She then is able to work on the schedule she determines herself.

VENEREAL DISEASE

CALL 338-8118

Nurse and patient are matched as closely as possible. If, for instance, children are involved, the registry will make every attempt to assign a nurse who has already had experience with children.

Mrs. Hyatt does not expect trouble finding enough nurses to fill the registry. Some 25 applied before it was even organized. The Schenectady registry has a membership of over 500, and Mrs. Hyatt expects the local agency to approach that number.

Applicants, she said, will be accepted from throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley to form a staff that can adequately meet the private nursing needs of patients living within a 50-mile radius of Kingston. She expects the local registry, as well, to help service the nursing requirements at hospitals in Kingston, Rhinebeck, Ellenville, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Beacon and Margaretville.

While the streamlined service offered by the new agency is sure to make life easier for patients, the program has its benefits for nurses, as well.

"There are many private nurses, like myself, who have to take care of homes and families," said Mrs. Hyatt. "We aren't able to work on a full-time basis. The registry will allow many nurses to begin working again, even if it's only part-time."

The registry, said Mrs. Hyatt, also allows nurses to take advantage of working hours that are more flexible than those at a hospital. The registry's staff is also bolstered by a sister agency, called Helpmates, which consists of R.N.'s, L.P.N.'s and Nurse's Aides available for duty on an hourly basis to give care dependent on the patient's needs. Helpmates are especially beneficial to patients who need a nurse to assist with exercises, or administer medication, for a brief period each day.

There is a set fee for the nursing service, the amount depending on whether an R.N. or L.P.N. is requested, and the length of time the service is needed. In addition, the registry charges a 10 per cent service fee. Medicare or any major medical plan will cover up to 80 per cent of the nurse's charges, but will not cover the registry's fee.

Tri-Cities Registry, organized in Schenectady seven years ago, is the only registry in New York State approved by the New York State Nurses Association. The Kingston agency is the only one in the Hudson Valley.

The registry's many benefits — to patients, — nurses and hospital's alike — are supported by a code that is consistent with the high ethical standards of the nursing profession:

dedicated to improving the health and well being of the citizens of the community, by providing the highest quality of nursing care possible wherever and whenever the need arises."

18,500 Acre Site

Adirondack Project....Controversy

RAY BROOK, N.Y. (AP) — A Connecticut developer's plan for an 18,500 acre vacation home project in the heart of the Adirondacks has sparked a bitter controversy between advocates and opponents of large scale recreational development in the region.

Amid charges that opponents of the project are "a self-appointed ecological elite" and counter-charges that supporters are a collection of "self-interested interest groups" the state Department of Environmental Conservation began hearings into the issue Tuesday.

Developer Louis Paparazzo says his project on a now unpopulated tract of forest and ponds north of Tupper Lake might eventually have 20,000 part time residents. He says he plans to leave 90 per cent of the land in its natural state.

The original purpose of the hearing was to examine Paparazzo's application for a water system permit for the first 1,000 acres of the project he calls Ton-Da-Lay.

But Environmental Conservation Commissioner Henry L. Diamond, says the Ton-Da-Lay case could set a precedent for future large scale development in the Adirondacks, ordered that the hearing be brought to examine all the environmental questions about the full 18,500 acre project.

And the citizens testifying at the hearings have broadened the issue still further. They have turned it into a head-on confrontation between those who think development of the Adirondacks ought to be curtailed to protect the natural environment, and those who think it should be speeded up to solve the region's economic problems.

David E. Wood, president of the Franklin County Chamber of Commerce, declared in his testimony Tuesday that "We love the beauty of the Adirondacks as much as the outsiders who don't want this project but we are in favor of good clean development."

He noted that Franklin County where the project is to be located, has one of the highest unemployment rates and one of the lowest personal income levels in the state.

George Nagle, speaking for the legislative committee of the New York State Council of Churches, summed up the arguments for the opponents. He said the proposed project threatens the wildlife and water in the area and is incompatible with the wilderness character of the surrounding state-owned forest preserve.

"Wilderness," Nagle said, "is a spiritual cradle nourishing the human spirit," a resource essential to "man's fundamental perception of himself and his relation to creation and creator."

The issue will not be settled even when the department issues its verdict. Lawyers for both Paparazzo and the Sierra Club, a national conservation organization that opposes Ton-Da-Lay, say they plan to file suit if the department rules against them.

They spent much of Tuesday's hearing filing technical objections for use in such court actions.

And the legislature, which is to consider next year the master land use plan for the Adirondacks, may by its action throw the issue into an entirely new set of hearings.

Local government and business officials at Tuesday's hearing focused their attention on the economic issues while arguing that the environmental impact of the project would be bearable.

Several said they favored second home development over polluting industries.

William Tinapple, administrative assistant for the Franklin County Board of Supervisors, testified that the board favors the project because it would help the economy and increase tax revenues.

Later, he said the county had made no study of what impact the development would have on public services and had not been told how many local residents might find jobs connected with Ton-Da-Lay.

But he said the project would increase the county's tax base from $179 million to $479 million.

Opponents said the development would endanger a uniquely scenic area, cause water pollution and destroy a habitat of the golden eagle, the Lincoln sparrow and other animals. And they argued that the project could have an adverse economic impact by overburdening roads, hospitals, sewer systems and police and fire departments. Most of the opponents were from outside the Adirondacks.

But one local resident opposing the project was William L. Bentley of Tupper Lake, a bearded young man who said the development threatens to bring what he called "the megalopolitan suburban pressure syndrome."

Lawrence A. Littman, another bearded young man who also said he was a lifelong resident of the area, said his family favored the project because it would improve business at the Saranac Inn, Golf and Country Club, which they own.

"Operating a golf course in the Adirondacks is difficult, particularly because of the low population."

The Other Day

An article about the human brain again reminded us of Dr. George Gallup's statement, "I could prove God statistically. Take the human body alone... the chance that all functions of the individual would just happen is a statistical monstrosity." To look at a human brain it seems just a mass of gray and white matter. But it has all conscious and subconscious awareness, all memory, judgement, imagination, emotion and control of the body. Medical science understands which parts cause or receive actions and reactions, but no human really knows much about it. The world is certainly full of mysteries, but let there be no mystery about where you get TOP VALUE... this is the place!

Great Lakes Seminar... Shipping Season Discussed

DETROIT (AP) — Extending of the Center for Great Lakes Studies at the University of Wisconsin.

Seaway and the Great Lakes is Schenker said that by 1980 both a financial and technological possibility. Dr. Eric Schenker told the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway Winter Navigation Seminar here today.

The multimillion dollar project also would be of great benefit to Great Lakes shippers, said Schenker, professor of economics and associate director

The current seaway shipping season normally runs from early April through mid-December. Schenker, who has prepared cost and benefit breakdowns for two, four and six week extensions, said a four-week extension would be the most economically sound.

Observers from a comparable Canadian commission also are attending because both countries would have to be involved in such a project.

Buyers Market in State For Teaching Positions

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — One school official on Long Island has a simple method of winnowing the overwhelming number of applications for teaching jobs. He rejects applications of those with less than a B average in college.

"Someone on his staff may say, gee, there probably are plenty of girls with a C-plus average who will be inspired teachers. He says, yeah, and probably as many with a B average," related Paul Dupris, who provides staffing help to 18 schools in Suffolk County.

Dupris, assistant superintendent of the Third Supervisory District in Suffolk County, said: "I guess he follows Damon Runyon's theory—the race doesn't always go to the strongest or the fastest, but that's where the smart money is."

It's a buyers market in the state for teachers. There are more teachers seeking jobs than there are jobs to fill. And the special Fleischmann Commission, which studied educational policy and financing, says the problem is going to get worse. If the trend continues, said the commission, there will be twice as many teachers as jobs by the 1980s.

As one way of meeting the problem, the commission recommended a 50 per cent reduction in undergraduate education programs.

"I don't know of any category in which there is a shortage of teachers, except for teachers for the handicapped, the retarded and the emotionally disturbed," said John Bennett, executive secretary of the Council of School District Administrators.

Other educational officials agree with his assessment. The consensus is that a vast oversupply exists of elementary school, English, history, geography and social sciences teachers.

There is a short supply in some areas of teachers for the handicapped and the retarded, media specialists, librarians, school psychologists, industrial arts teachers, bilingual teachers, shorthand and typing teachers.

The problem is complicated by the fact that not all areas have an oversupply of teachers. In one established area, teachers may not be needed. In another area contractors are turning out homes like rubber stamps, teachers are required for new schools. "We're always rediscovering the wheel," said Dupris.

Overall, the Fleischmann Commission said, there is a great surplus of teachers.

The oversupply of teachers is evident even in New York City, which has had difficulty in the past in staffing schools in blighted areas. "This year, we have no problem," said Gerald Brooks, director of the Bureau of Educational Staff Selection of the New York City Board of Education. "The staffing situation is very favorable."

After years of searching for teachers, officials of many rural schools now have to turn away applicants. We have had as many as 100 applications for one social studies job," said Sheldon Guile, former superintendent of the Owego-Appalachin School District.

Bennett attributed this phenomenon to the desire of many new teachers to "get away, to get out into the country. Vermont and New Hampshire used to have trouble getting teachers, and now they're attracting teachers because of the clean air and the skiing."

In speaking for the 18 school districts in the suburban western section of Suffolk County, Dupris said: "We have 20 applications for every job. All of them are certified and all carry lyrical references from their college professors."

John Borel, an official in the State Education Department with the task of helping returning Peace Corps and Vista veterans find jobs, said the applicants are becoming more realistic about their chances. They are applying earlier, he said, and sometimes expect to obtain another job before a teacher vacancy opens.

Many school administrators are exploiting the teacher surplus. Some, like the school official on Long Island, are stiffening qualification requirements. Others are trying to hire better qualified teachers for less money.

Teachers' unions are concentrating on job security and on methods to protect or increase teachers' jobs. "There really isn't a surplus if the available teachers are used to reduce class size," said Dean Streiff of the United Teachers of New York, the product of the merger between the United Federation of Teachers and the New York State Teachers Association.

But, as Dupris noted, "You've got thousands of little girls coming out of state teachers colleges every year."

At the State University at Albany and some other state teachers colleges, freshmen and sophomores are informed of the teaching job market and discouraged from entering the field.

A spokesman for the State University central administration said that students are well aware of the tight job market. The trend is to pick up additional training in college, he said, to qualify for the teaching of the handicapped and the retarded and in other specialized areas.

Asked whether quotas should be placed on the number of students seeking a teaching degree, a spokesman for the State University central administration said: "We will counsel them, but we won't stop them. We don't want to force curriculums on a student."

"It raises a problem," said

Vincent Gazzetta, director of teacher education certification in the State Education Department. "Do we have a right to limit a student's choice?"

Gazzetta doubted the value of the Fleischmann Commission proposal to stiffen requirements for teacher certification. "Every time we've raised certification requirements in the past," he said, "we've gotten more students."

Neither Gazzetta nor other educators who were queried agreed with the recommendation of the Fleischmann Commission for a 50 per cent reduction in the enrollment of students in education schools. The view was that the problem eventually will take care of itself.

Dean Randolph Gardner of the Education School of the State University of Albany said he subscribed to the argument expressed in a recent bulletin of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

The bulletin said that school population runs in cycles and now is approaching the low point. Concluded the article: "The training of teachers has to proceed at a pace unrelated to the current demand for teachers. As the demand is variable, the supply must be variable." By 1990, it said, there will be a shortage of teachers.

But until then, it might be hard to find a teaching job.

Topless-Bottomless Industry . . . Court Ruling May Result in Battle

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's topless-bottomless entertainment industry is girding for a battle over an antinudity ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The court's decision gives state liquor authorities the power to begin enforcing regulations against topless waitresses and topless-bottomless entertainers.

Peter Sexton, deputy director of the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, said topless-only dancers still are allowed if the entertainer stays at least six feet away from the nearest customer on a stage at least 18 inches high. Topless waitresses, said Sexton, are out.

"Nude entertainment per se is on its way out," Sexton added.

The 6-3 Supreme Court ruling said that states can shut down bars that feature nude dancers and other "baccchanalian revelries on grounds that First Amendment freedom does not go beyond books and movies to 'gross sexuality' in public."

Edward J. Kirby, director of the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, said the ruling will affect all other states, too. It was issued Tuesday in a California case.

Nude-bar owner Tammy Heath said there is going to be a struggle if Kirby's department starts moving to revoke liquor licenses on the basis of the type of entertainment offered.

"They've got one hell of a fight on their hands," she said. "It's ludicrous to think the Supreme Court or the supreme anything is going to regulate people's morals," said Miss Heath, who owns the "Kat Patch" and "Sand Box" nude bars between San Francisco and Sacramento.

Sexton says his department is planning an immediate statewide drive to lift liquor licenses of nude bars or bars that permit sex acts ranging from intercourse to flagellation or that display genitalia — whether in the flesh or on film.

"We intend to press it to the letter of the law," Sexton said. "There will be no holding back."

State lawmakers could overrule the liquor department's regulations against mixing liquor and full nudity. But such action would require the signature of Gov. Ronald Reagan, who endorsed a recent unsuccessful statewide antiobscenity initiative.

Carol Doda, the statuesque blonde who pioneered topless dancing in San Francisco's North Beach area in 1964, said nude bars may quit serving alcoholic beverages to avoid coming under jurisdiction of the state's liquor licensing agency.

KINGSTON They stand 21 inches high, 24 inches wide and 16 inches deep. Friends of Children of Vietnam will conduct a Holiday Craft and Bake Sale on Saturday, Dec. 9 and Saturday, Dec. 16 to help raise funds to purchase toys, clothing and food supplies for Vietnamese children and war orphans.

The bake and craft sale on Dec. 9 will be held at the Grand Union supermarket on Market Street in Saugerties. The sale on Dec. 16 will be held at the Grand Union supermarket at the Kingston Plaza.

The baked goods and holiday craft items will be prepared by members of the local organization.

In addition to the regular items that will be available, the organization will give away two handmade colonial style dollhouses. Each dollhouse contains five rooms, simulated bluestone fireplace, chimney, patio, carpeting and wallpaper throughout, plexiglass windows, stained sun deck and simulated grass.

The dollhouses were built by Joseph Ryan of Saugerties and David K. Hyatt of Kingston with materials provided by Miron Lumber Co.

Each dollhouse is fabricated from one-quarter inch plywood.

Main Opposition Parties Still Feuding in Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's four main opposition parties want to form a "united front" to unseat Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's Liberal-Democratic government, but they are still feuding among themselves. Tanaka dissolved the House of Representatives on Nov. 13, clearing the way for elections on Dec. 10.

Tomomi Narita, chairman of the Japan Socialist party, believes that if all four opposition parties could unite now, they would be ready to form a coalition government by 1975.

But neither the Democratic Socialist party nor the Japan Communist party wants the other to be included in the opposition bloc.

The chairman of the fourth group, the Komei or Clean Government party — has said he would prefer the front without the Communists, although his party has not taken any official stand.

Last week the Communist party's newspaper, Akahata — or Red Flag — said the plan for a four-party opposition coalition was a "daydream."

Despite the quarrels, officials of the Japan Socialist party say they intend to proceed with the original plan. They are reported to be working behind the scenes to bring about a compromise between the Democratic Socialists and the Communists.

Past gubernatorial elections in Okinawa and several other prefectures, or states, have shown that united opposition against the ruling Liberal Democrats can work.

Battling the present government may not be easy, however. Recent public opinion polls show that the Liberal Democrats hold a comfortable margin over all four main opposition parties, largely due to Tanaka's rapprochement policy towards China.

The Prime Minister, in office slightly more than four months, visited China last fall. On Sept. 29 his government extended Peking official diplomatic recognition while withdrawing it from the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan. That move won approval from all four major Japanese opposition parties, but they are now pressing the government for a review of the U.S.-Japan security treaty.

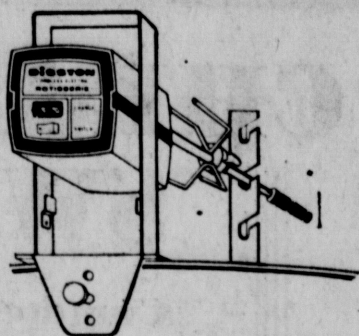

When Tanaka dissolved the House, his Liberal Democrats held 297 seats in the 491-seat legislative body. Japan Socialists had 87, the Komei 47, Democratic Socialists 29, Communists 14 and Independents 3. There were 14 vacancies.

Area Stock Report

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices in today's stock market were following the upward trend of Wednesday's session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up more than a point and advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange took a lead of nearly 2 to 1 over declining stocks.

Traders said they were encouraged by the market's ability to shrug off profit-taking and tax-loss selling Wednesday morning and get on with its gradual advance.

They said there had been some nervousness over rising short-term interest rates, which was dissipated when several sources cut the rates back.

In the current bull market, one broker observed, corrections and consolidations "seem to last not much more than a day."

Active issues on the Big Board included Minnesota Mining, up 3/4 to 83 3/4; Lucky Strike, ahead 1/4 at 17; Phillips Petroleum, off 3/4 at 41 1/4; and Pan Am, down 1/4 to 10 1/2.

Big Board volume remained at a relatively high level at 18.61 million shares.

The market was uncertain at the start Wednesday, but rolled ahead in the afternoon. Its advance was less than sensational, but pushed the Dow average to another all-time closing high, up 4.59 to 1,027.54. The New York Stock Exchange index also reached a new high at 64.60. On the Over-the-Counter market the NASDAQ composite index touched 134.68, setting a new high for the third day in a row.

Judge Refuses Injunction

BUFFALO (AP)—A federal judge has refused to issue a preliminary injunction that would ban Attica prison officials from punishing prisoners who took part in a prison demonstration Nov. 8.

Judge John O. Henderson of U.S. District Court took the action Wednesday and set Dec. 18 for a hearing on the dispute.

Prison officials said 132 inmates jogged in a circle in a prison exercise yard on Nov. 8 in violation of a prison rule that limits assembly of prisoners to groups of no more than six.

The prisoners, who were protesting prison conditions, were lead into cells in a vacant cellblock by armed guards. Later, 58 were charged with violations of prison rules and 10 were placed in segregated cells without privileges.

The Prisoners Legal Assistance Program sought the injunction, contending inmates were being punished without due process.

But Henderson, in reaching his decision, said, "The inmates who participated in the Nov. 8 incident did so with the specific intent to act contrary to prison regulations."

IBM Contract Is Announced

WASHINGTON, D.C. Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. today announced a contract from the General Service Administration with IBM which could reach $325 million.

According to GSA from past experience, the Kingston IBM plant should receive approximately $28.2 million, with some $31.7 million going to the Poughkeepsie IBM plant.

The contract which is retroactive to July 1, 1972, and will run to June 30, 1973, is for automatic data processing systems, punch card equipment, and related software, their rental, repair service, and maintenance.

IBM officials acknowledged the contract without further comment.

Jury Selection

KINGSTON Jury selection began Wednesday in the trial of Michael Popowycz of Fishkill, indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury on charges of criminal possession of stolen property in the first degree. The charges arise out of the alleged theft of seven snowmobiles in Woodstock, Feb. 14, owned by Raymond Roth. Popowycz is being represented by former District Attorney Joseph Torracca. Assistant District Attorney James Melbert represents The People. County Judge Raymond J. Mino is presiding.

Man Injured In Accident

TOWN OF RHINEBECK Vernal F. Piantanida, 34, of 45 Sharon Lane, Kingston, was admitted to Northern Dutchess Hospital Wednesday after his car was in collision with a tractor-trailer at the intersection of Route 199 and River Road in the Town of Rhinebeck. There were no injuries.

State Police said that Piantanida was driving north on River Road at 5:35 p.m. when he car allegedly struck the left side of the tractor-trailer, owned by the Schwerman Trucking Company of Hudson and operated by James J. Olivet, 27, of Tranquility Lane, Earlinton. Piantanida was issued a summons for failure of yield right-of-way at an intersection. He was reported in fair condition today with lacerations of the right hand and internal injuries.

hospital was able to maintain essential services with the aid of emergency generators.

Gerard Nocton, assistant administrator, said that power failed to come back on the hospital after an interruption at about 4:45 p.m. The hospital then switched to two Diesel generators for emergency power until Central Hudson power was restored at about 10:45 p.m.

Nocton said that the two generators, one of 500 kilovolt-ampere capacity and one of 20 kilovolt-amperes, enabled the hospital to maintain all lighting in the new Spellman Wing and reduced lighting in the older wing. The switch to internal generators idled the hospital's X-ray equipment, which requires high voltages, but all food services were maintained.

Sharp November Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rise in wholesale prices accelerated sharply in November, dampening the Nixon administration's hopes that inflation has been brought under control, government officials said today.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that the wholesale price index rose six-tenths of one per cent, both on an adjusted and unadjusted basis, last month. It was the biggest increase in wholesale prices since July and it reversed a recent trend on the slower price increases at the wholesale level.

The index was pushed up by price increases of fresh vegetables, eggs and dairy products, cars and furniture, lumber, leather and some textile products. Also contributing to the rise were increases in the prices of coal, hides and skins, and natural gas.

The report means that it will be difficult for President Nixon to reach his target of slowing the rate of inflation to at least 3 per cent by the end of the year. Rises in wholesale prices are usually reflected quickly in retail prices.

Gilman Seeks Broad Base Farm Loan

MIDDLETOWN A more effective, broader-based federal farm loan program to bring farmers to an economic par with current governmental loans available to businesses is being sought by

★ ★ Asks MTA Plans

MIDDLETOWN Congressman-elect Benjamin A. Gilman has called upon Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA) Chairman, Dr. William J. Ronan and officials of the New York State Power Authority to inform him of the MTA's plans for a new power generating facility in the Hudson Valley area.

Particularly interested in any potential siting within the 26th Congressional District (which includes all of Orange and Rockland counties and the southern portion of Ulster County), Congressman-elect Gilman said: "Although the Power Authority is responsible for making new siting compatible with our environment, I believe it is important that local government and the residents of this region have early knowledge of any prospective power plant site and that they have an opportunity to be heard in the planning of such a site."

Gilman has been a past critic of the MTA's failure to inform the public of its planning for the Stewart Airport project.

Congressman-elect Benjamin A. Gilman.

Requesting a top level meeting of federal farm credit agencies through Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, Gilman said, "through present disaster legislation, approved by Congress, we have been able to provide long-term, low-interest farm loans to those farmers who qualified under the President's declaration of a national emergency this summer. We must now move toward updating our farm loan laws to the present standards which apply to business and industry."

Gilman's request was made public Friday during a meeting of regional representatives from the Farmers Home Administration (FHA), the Small Business Administration (SBA) and Production Credit Association (PCA) at the Federal Land Bank in Middletown.

Gilman said, "the current governmental loan opportunities afforded businessmen are far greater than those provided for our farmers who often have substantial capital investment, who hire many employees and who contribute heavily to our economy."

"We must not only resolve the overlapping responsibilities granted to these Federal agencies, but we must also seek to have these same agencies work more efficiently, effectively and closer with one another in order to resolve the fiscal problems confronting our farmers."

Things That Go Theme

Derby Featured by Pack 10

LAKE KATRINE
The monthly theme of "Things That Go" and the Thanksgiving holiday were featured at the Nov. 27 meeting of Cub Scout Pack 10 at the Lake Katrine Elementary School.

The main event was a Pinewood Derby, in which each of the Cubs had the opportunity to test the model racing car he had worked on with his father during the month. With the assistance of judges Bill Borden, Norm Kilfoyle, and Jack Montague, the Cubs first raced their cars against those of the other boys from their own dens. Blue ribbons, symbolic of having the fastest racer in their dens, were won by Edward Arace, William Browne, James Cosgrove, Jimmy Kilfoyle, Gary McClurg, Sean Montague, Jeff Tanka, Steve Werner, and Michael Yerry. Subsequent heats were cars in Pack 10, and miniature loving cups for finishing first, second, and third in the final heat were awarded to Browne, Cosgrove, and Tanka, respectively.

In the opening ceremony, directed by Den Leader Phyllis Durling, the Cubs of Den 5 recited an alliterative poem to the letters of the word "G-I-V-E" and led the Scouts and their guests in the pledge to the flag.

During the meeting, Pack Advancement Chairman G. Ernest Smith and Treasurer Alan Levy presented a number of Cubs with the awards they had earned during the month:

Pat Harkins, Pat McCullough, Lee Reiff, Michael Van Keuren, Jay Levy, Richard Grossman,

Two new Cubs, Michael Crispell and Paul Kissick, were inducted into the Pack with a Bobcat branding ceremony.

Pack 10 will hold its annual Christmas party at its next meeting on Dec. 17 at the Lake Katrine Elementary School. A puppet show will be featured, and it is hoped that Santa will visit the Cubs and their guests.

Busy Months For Cadettes Of Troops 207

The Cadettes of Troop 207, led by Mrs. P. H. Hoffman, spent a very busy and productive past two months.

The Troop received a new American Flag from Kingston Post 150 of the American Legion, who also offered to donate a Troop Flag giving the Cadettes their first complete set of flags.

On Oct. 14 the Cadettes rode the chairlift to the top of Hunter Mountain and hiked about three miles to the fire tower, thoroughly enjoying the beautiful foliage, which was at its peak.

Also in October the girls organized a Neighborhood Campfire Sing at Sawkill Firehouse, inviting all the Girl Scouts and Brownies in the area.

On Oct. 30 the girls held a fashion show in conjunction with their "Good Grooming" program. Mrs. Traficanti demonstrated the use of teenage makeup application and her samples were appreciated.

On Nov. 11 the troop had a Bake Sale at Waldbaums to raise money for troop activities.

Nov. 13 and 20 was spent on requirements for the "Our Government" badge and the "Active Citizenship" Challenge. Mrs. Shirley Anderson from the League of Women Voters assisted the girls at these meetings.

At present the Cadettes are working on two service projects. They are making bird feeders for the ZACHA Garden Club of Zena and expect to continue their service in the spring clearing brush and marking trees on the grounds of the Zena Recreation Park.

The Cadettes are presently involved in filling shoe boxes with personal health items for the Taos Pueblo Indians of New Mexico. These will be sent to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schlosser at Taos and they will present the boxes to the Indians at Christmas.

The future weeks will find the girls making candles and candle rings, planning a winter weekend at Camp Wendy and organizing a Fun and Food Day for the Senior Citizens.

Accept HRSH Under SSA

POUGHKEEPSIE
The Social Security Administration recently accepted Hudson River State Hospital in Poughkeepsie as a medical-surgical hospital under the Social Security Act.

This entitles Hudson River State Hospital to medicare benefits for medical-surgical cases under the Health Insurance Benefits Program for the Aged. The effective date of participation is retroactive to April 1.

Four other state hospitals also were approved as medical-surgical units by the Social Security Administration. They include Central Islip, Harlem Valley, Willard, and Middletown state hospitals.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

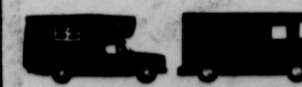

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance

Ulster Whips Orange, 72-54

STONE RIDGE
Coach Bob Lake and his Orange County Community College Colts came to town Wednesday night hoping to hold Ulster Community "under 70 points" in their Mid-Hudson Basketball Conference game.

"I wasn't aware they were working on such a goal," said Coach Mike Perry after the Senators had achieved another of their patented late-second-half drive to trounce the visitors 72-54 and register their fifth straight victory.

The Colts missed their objective but did manage to hold the Senators to their second lowest total in the five games to date, a fact Coach Perry attributed to Orange's "well-disciplined offense." He noted that Orange played a Nassauville trophy offense "and made it a little scary" when they came within eight points 53-45 in the second half.

With the game seemingly still within reach for the Colts, Ulster responded like it had in recent games with Nassau and Fashion Institute Tech. Enter reserve guard Ike Chestnut, who promptly connected for five points on two dunks and a free throw.

And then there is always Jackie Knowles when the pressure is the hottest. The Senators' incredible jumping jack took six shots and scored six baskets. End of the ball game. The interesting sidelight is that those were all the points he accumulated during the night.

Henry Nixon scored 12, Lenoris Clemons had 14 and Steve Richardson, who has replaced Bob Miller in the UCCB Big Five, hit for 10 points. But it was Knowles' heroics that elicited an unusual warm tribute from the fiery Ulster coach.

"Knowles played a virtually flawless game," Perry pointed out. "He didn't have a turnover. He's always tough, but tonight he really starred." It was a sincere tribute that brought to mind Westchester Coach Ralph Arietta's evaluation of Knowles. He's the greatest player in the conference.

The final score may not truly reflect Ulster's real superiority over Orange, but, as Perry explained, "It's good to be able to win when you're not getting the ball into the hole as well as you expect." The reserves got another fine workout and twelve players saw action.

Ulster hosts Hostos College of New York City, a relatively new school, Friday night.

The result:

USC, Nebraska Dominate AP All-America

NEW YORK (AP) — Two players from No. 1-ranked Southern California and three from Nebraska's deposed national champions, including Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers, were named today to The Associated Press All-America football team for 1972.

Four members from the 1971 All-America team made it for the second year in a row, including Oklahoma's super runner Greg Pruitt. He was named in the 1972 backfield by quarterback John Hufnagel of Penn State and running backs Otis Armstrong of Purdue and Woodrow Green of Arizona State.

The other repeaters are middle guard Rich Glover of Nebraska, winner of the Outland Trophy as the nation's top interior lineman, offensive tackle Jerry Sisemore of Texas and center Tom Brahoney of Oklahoma.

The third Nebraska representative is defensive end Willie Harper while top-ranked Southern Cal is represented by tight end Charles Young and sophomore linebacker Richard Wood.

Rodgers, Harper, guard John Hannah of Alabama and defensive back Robert Popelka of Southern Methodist all moved up from the second team of a year ago while Brad Van Pelt, Michigan State's towering 6-foot-5 safety, climbed from the 1971 third team.

Rounding out the elite 22-man All-America squad for 1972 are tackle John Hicks of Ohio State, guard Ron Ruskunak of North Carolina, defensive end Roger Gorse of Baylor, defensive tackles Greg Marx of Notre Dame and Derland

Moore of Oklahoma, line-backers Randy Gradishar of Ohio State and John Skorupan of Penn State and defensive back Calvin Jones of Washington.

Wood, who calls defensive signals for Southern Cal's unbeaten Trojans, is the only sophomore on the All-America team while Green, Hicks and Gradishar are juniors.

Rodgers wound up regular season play with four National Collegiate Athletic Association records, seven Big Eight Conference marks and 19 Nebraska records. He has scored 46 touchdowns, 276 points, caught 150 passes for 2,708 yards and 26 touchdowns and has returned punts for 1,654 yards. In all-purpose running, he has an NCAA record 5,886 yards.

Hufnagel has directed Penn State to 26 victories in 28 games since becoming the starting quarterback midway in the 1970 season. He holds nine Penn State records, including game, season and career marks for passing and total offense yardage.

Oklahoma's opponents overloaded their defenses to the outside to take away Pruitt's explosive sweeps and he didn't approach his 1,665 yards of last season. But Coach Chuck Fairbanks said he still "had a heckuva year for us."

Although he missed one Arizona State game with a knee injury, Green still galloped for 1,363 yards and 15 touchdowns. He had the professional scouts drooling even last year.

Purdue's Armstrong is likely to be a first-round pick when the National Football League does its drafting early next year. He was the only player to be named AP Back of the Week twice this season and he did it by gaining a school record 233 yards against Northwestern.

Tight end Young is outstanding whether he's catching the football or blocking. He has outstanding speed and can catch the ball," says Southern Cal Coach John McKay. He can go deep as well as short, almost like a split receiver.

McKay also says that Southern Cal's defense deserves three-fourths of the credit for the Trojans' No. 1 ranking and Wood is the leader. He's as fine a defensive football player as I've ever seen at this stage of development," says McKay.

Brahoney, Hannah, Sisemore and Hicks were largely responsible with their blocking for

Unpredictable Night in NBA

By United Press International
It was the kind of a night that makes you realize how really unpredictable professional basketball is.

Only four games were played in the National Basketball Association Wednesday night, but they featured: the Philadelphia 76ers winning, the Milwaukee Bucks losing, and Phil Chenier scoring 53 points to set a Baltimore team record.

The 76ers, who won only two of their first 26 games, came up with their third triumph by beating the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 122-117 as John Q. Trapp, a recent acquisition from Los Angeles, scored a career high of 35 points. It was only the first home court success for Philadelphia in 11 tries.

NBA scoring leader Nate Archibald led the Kings with 34 points and also had 10 assists. Spencer Haywood scored 32 points and Lee Winfield contributed a career high of 15 assists along with 11 points to help the Seattle SuperSonics turn back the Bucks 95-91. It was the first victory for Seattle in two years over the Bucks.

For Kentucky Colonels

Seven Was Lucky

By United Press International
Seven was the lucky number for the Kentucky Colonels Wednesday night.

The Colonels turned in their seventh straight win with a 119-105 victory over the Virginia Squires and the triumph moved Kentucky past the Squires into second place in the ABA's Eastern Division. Kentucky is now just 1-2 games behind Carolina.

Dan Issel and Lou Dampier combined for 56 points in the triumph. Issel had 32 and Dampier added 24. Julius Erving scored 32 points for Virginia in the losing cause.

In the other three games, New York downed Memphis 101-95, Indiana topped San Diego 124-112 and Denver beat Dallas 110-104.

The Nets snapped a four-game losing streak as George Carter scored 20 points and four of his teammates, Billy Paul, Jim Ard, John Roche and Brian Taylor, added 17 points each.

George McGinnis scored 24 points for Indiana in the Pacers' victory over San Diego. The Pacers jumped to a 20-4 margin at the start of the game and coasted to the win. Stew Johnson paced the losers with 36 points.

Gene Kennedy and Joe Hamilton got the key baskets that blunted two Denver rallies and paced Dallas to its victory. Denver got a 66-65 lead in the third period but Kennedy hit two straight layups to put Dallas back in front. The losers got to within two points in the final period but Dallas scored

Sabres' Meehan the Key

By United Press International
Just about one hour before the opening faceoff, Buffalo Coach Joe Crozier was saying that Gerry Meehan is the key man for the Sabres this season. "It's all resting on Meehan," Crozier said point blank. "If he has a big year like he did two years ago, we're in the playoffs. If he doesn't, we won't make it." Some three hours later, the nature of Crozier's prophecy was more readily understood. Meehan was the hero of Buffalo's first-ever victory in Madison Square Garden as he set up the tying goal midway through the final period and then scored the winner with only 2:43 left to play, giving the Sabres a 3-2 victory over the New York Rangers.

Oddly, Meehan's 13th goal of the season wasn't even intended as a shot on net. It couldn't have been since the Buffalo team captain was standing behind the Ranger cage at the time.

"It was supposed to be a pass for Hughie Harris," said Meehan. "I was behind the net and I saw him coming across the front. But it hit the skates of one of the Rangers and then hit (goalie Gilles) Villeneuve's skates and made a little circle into the back of the net."

"I don't care how it went in. It won the game for us and I'm glad to have it."

When he was asked about Crozier's statement placing the entire weight of the team's chances on his shoulders, Meehan didn't flinch.

"It's nice to know they're counting on you," said the 26-year-old center. "If they think you can do it, it makes you think you can too. I've done it before and I don't see why I can't again. Last year wasn't that bad for me but it wasn't as good as the year before."

Meehan, whose 19 goals in 1971-72 represented a drop of five from the previous year, already has 13 this season, including six in his last three games and 12 in the last 11. Meehan attributes this surge to the putting together of a line with him, Harris and Jim

Figures Deceive

Jets Lead

By United Press International
The standings show Winnipeg making a runaway of the World Hockey Association's Western Division, but the figures are somewhat deceptive.

The Jets stretched their advantage over both Minnesota and Los Angeles to 11 points Wednesday night by blasting the Chicago Cougars 7-1. However, the Fighting Saints have seven games in hand over Winnipeg, representing a possible 14 points, while Los Angeles has played four less games than the Jets.

The New England Whalers moved into a first-place tie with idle Cleveland in the Eastern Division by edging the New York Raiders 4-3 in the only other WHA game played Wednesday night.

Slow Death Slowdown

The Citadel's slowdown turned to slow death Monday night.

Facing a superior Penn club, the Citadel tried to play possession ball throughout the first half. But Penn, with Phil Hankinson and Ron Haigler leading the way, took advantage of turnovers to push the 10th-ranked Quakers to a 20-point halftime lead and ultimately a 67-34 rout.

The Citadel turned the ball over 22 times, nine in the first half, and Hankinson and Haigler each hit 18 points to break open the game. The Citadel took only five shots in the first half and made four but the Quakers still managed to surge to a 29-9 lead.

In other action involving ranked clubs, No. 8 Southwest Louisiana clubbed Pan American 111-79 and No. 15 Oral Roberts trimmed Idaho State 92-5. Dwight Lamar had 30 points in the Southwestern Louisiana rout.

Elsewhere, John Shumate and Gary Brokaw teamed for 47 points to lead Notre Dame to an 82-72 triumph over Valparaiso and John Brown's 35 points carried unbeaten Missouri to an 84-75 triumph over Purdue.

Georgetown, with four freshmen in the starting lineup, upset St. Bonaventure 73-70 in overtime as Merlin Wilson scored 24 points. The victory was Georgetown's third this season, matching its entire total last season.

Charlie Neal and Sam Whitehead combined for 34 points as Oregon State beat Temple 56-50 and Tom Inglesby's 22 points lifted Villanova to a 67-62 win over Niagara. Furman forced Clemson into 41 turnovers to win 83-6 and remain unbeaten and Jerome Wright's 22 points helped Colorado defeat Tulane 7-86. Freshman star Alvan Adams had 16 points as unbeaten Oklahoma trimmed Samford 55-51.

Final Tests For Bench

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Cincinnati Reds star catcher Johnny Bench underwent final tests Wednesday to try to determine the cause of a small spot on his right lung.

Dr. Luis Gonzalez said he inserted a small tube with an electric light through Bench's trachea into the bronchial tubes. He said results of the tests would not be made known until Friday.

Bench, who was 25 years old today, is expected to undergo surgery at Christ Hospital next Monday to remove what is believed to be a benign lesion on his lung. The lesion was discovered during the Reds' routine annual physical examination in late September.

If surgery is necessary, Bench is scheduled to enter the hospital on Saturday.

"Sure it worried me at first," the affable Bench, winner of the National League Most Valuable Player award in 1970 and 1972, said. "But the doctors assured me that the spot was nothing serious and that I should go on playing ball."

After the exam, Bench played regularly, including games of the pennant playoff and the World Series.

Ted Bench, Johnny's father, said Wednesday we couldn't believe it when the family was told of the spot on his son's lung.

"We waited while they tested and finally we were told that the spot was not malignant and probably not serious," Bench said. "Of course, we just don't know, but we kept faith."

Ann Marie Still Best

VAL D'ISERE, France (UPI)—Anne Marie Proell of Austria today proved herself to still be the best girl skier here winning the first world cup downhill of the new season.

Anne Marie, 19, beat her great French rival Jacqueline Rouvier down the slope. A young Austrian girl, Irmgard Lukasser, formerly known only on the junior circuit, came from back in the pack to finish third.

The Austrian girls made almost a clean sweep of the race, taking four out of the five top placings.

Their clocking: 1-Miss Proell, 1:27.94 minutes 2-Miss Rouvier, 1:28.29 3-Miss Lukasser, 1:30.24 4-Wilfrud Drexler, Austria, gliding style.

1:30.45 5-Brigitte Totschnig, Austria, 1:30.48

Miss Rouvier, 25, who man- aged to beat Miss Proell here last year, thought she could do it again.

"I really thought I had won today but Ann Marie was just that little bit faster on the last part," Jacqueline said.

Ann Marie, for her part, was equally confident. "This snow today suited me perfectly," the plump Austrian girl—one of eight children of a Salzburg region farmer, said afterwards. Experts had said from the start that the hard snow and lack of bumps or other technical difficulties, was perfect for Ann Marie's easy

WE DEAL IN LONG-TERM SECURITY.

If you've decided to have a ripe old age, consider the Swedes. They last longer than anybody (Life expectancy is 77 years.) And it happens that the car more of them drive down the road of life in is a Volvo. (Whose life expectancy is the longest in Sweden: 14 years.) So if you're going to model your life on the Swedes, the least you could do is come to us for the car that's built to suit their life style. Volvo.

Orange Grapplers Top UCCC

STONE RIDGE
Ulster County Community College's upset-minded wrestling team threw a scare at the visiting powerhouse from Orange County at the State Gymnasium Wednesday night.

But the Colts recovered to win the final three weight classes and pull out a 33-15 decision. It was Ulster's second loss in as many starts this season.

"We've finished the toughest part of our schedule now," sighed a slightly disappointed UCCC coach Mark Cranfield after the match. Ulster's first loss came at the hands of Suffolk, also one of the better teams in the area. "We just weren't aggressive enough to win," he continued, "we thought we'd have to score in five weight classes and maybe get a break, but we just couldn't do it."

Todd Snover started things rolling for the Senators with a forfeit win in the 118-pound category, then ace Tom Coddington picked up his second victory of the season with a 9-0 decision over Orange's Tom Lias.

The visitors evened things up in 134 and 142 as Dave Dinan outpointed Ed Caputo and Joe Marino pinned John San Marco before Jim Daniels again put the home team on top with a 3-0 beating of Dave Gellinger at the 150 level.

Only Bill Kitsoos could break the winners' string from that point as Norm Miller pinned Glenn Maisch in 1:48 of their 177-pound tussle to lock up the win for the Colts.

Kitsoos nailed Herst Eppenack in 1:06 to take the 167 match. The three remaining UCCC winners were Dave Cherry, Dave Daniels and Chuck Conway. Cherry whipped Tom Ellis 5-3 in the 158 class, Daniels pinned Ulster's Rich Warfel in 2:48 of the 190 match, and Conway received a forfeit in the heavyweight division.

Miller and Dave Daniels each wrestled two weight classes above normal and turned in exceptional performances for the Colts who were not totally up to strength going into the meet.

The Ulster matmen will have an opportunity to get into the victory column during the next few weeks with upcoming matches against less formidable foes, Bronx, Rockland and Kingsborough. The next difficult test on the schedule is set for Dec. 20 when the Senators take on a strong Westchester team.

It Was Time for Rodgers and Pruitt to Part Company

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — There comes a time when even good friends must part, and merely by the look on Gregg Pruitt's face, you could see this was the time.

The announcement had just been made that Nebraska's Johnny Rodgers was the winner of the 1972 Heisman Memorial Trophy, awarded annually to the nation's outstanding college football player.

Rodgers wasn't on hand yet, he was coming in from nearby Jersey City, N.J., but Pruitt, Oklahoma's fine halfback, already was at the Downtown Athletic Club where the announcement was made, and when they made it, Pruitt never so much as moved a muscle trying to pretend it didn't matter to him at all. It did, though. A whole lot.

"Disappointed?" the man alongside him asked Pruitt. "Yes," he said.

"Why?"

"I feel I deserved it. I feel I'm a better ballplayer. I think they made a mistake."

They were passing out the literature now and Pruitt was handed one of the press kits.

He flipped over the first page and his eyes focused on the second one which told the entire story.

There was a table of figures headed:

No. of Votes Total Points

1st 2nd 3rd

1. Johnny Rodgers, Nebraska 301 151 105 1,310

2. Gregg Pruitt, Oklahoma 117 223 169 966

3. Rich Glover, Nebraska 99 125 105 652

When broken down, the tabulation showed Rodgers had swept the vote in every section of the country—the Far West, Southwest, Midwest, Southwest, Midwest, South and East. Pruitt studied the figures some more.

"We're friends," he said. "We roomed together once when we came here to be on an All-Star show last year, so I'd say we're pretty close, but I think he got more publicity and that helped."

"Do you think his 'background' influenced the voters?" Pruitt was asked.

"If I were voting, it wouldn't be a factor with me," answered Oklahoma's stocky running back. "I feel the Trophy should be for the best college player." Rodgers' 'background' goes back to his freshman year at Nebraska, when he and some friends were involved in a service station holdup which netted $90.

Rodgers called the stickup a "prank." He got off with probation and having his driving license suspended.

Later, though, he was picked up on suspicion of possessing marijuana. No evidence was discovered. Last spring he drew more publicity when he ran a stop sign while driving with a suspended license.

The people at the University of Nebraska who claim to know Johnny Rodgers tell me he's a good person and all that trouble is behind him, but it all came up again lately when some moralists argued the 5-foot-9, 173 pound Omaha-bred triple threat runner did not exactly exemplify all the Heisman Trophy symbolizes.

"For awhile it seemed like I wouldn't get anything," said Johnny Rodgers Tuesday after they got in touch with him by phone at Rich Glover's house in Jersey City and he came over to receive his award.

Rodgers said there was no place he could go during the recent controversy over whether he should win the award to get away from it.

"It was pretty distressing," he said. "I knew it happened and I had to pay for it. I didn't mind not getting the award if I wasn't the best football player, but when I heard they wouldn't vote for me because of my character, because of the 'scratches' I had with the law, I felt they didn't know me, or my character, and if they did, they'd change their minds."

In his heart, Johnny Rodgers feels he is a better football player than Gregg Pruitt.

HIS heart, Gregg Pruitt feels he's the better football player.

The two of them are united by many things, not only their color.

Pruitt didn't see Rodgers when he first came into the room where it was all happening Tuesday. He made sure to come over to Rodgers before leaving though.

Oklahoma's All-America extended his hand to Nebraska's All-America. Both gave it the "brothers" shake.

"Still in the family," said Gregg Pruitt.

Johnny Rodgers smiled, and said thanks. They were no longer competitors. They were good friends again.

Ketterer's completed a perfect season with 11 straight wins to capture the YMCA "B" fall league basketball title by a five-game margin over the runnerup Corner Rest team.

In their last three outings, the champions trounced Corner Rest 79-65, Carriage House 79-40 and Stewart's 101-32. Corner Rest and Carriage House tied for second place with 6-5 marks.

Carriage House edged Corner Rest 53-52 and crushed Stewart's 97-46. The Rest topped Stewart's 74-46.

Mike Jordan of Ketterer's, the league's leading scorer, racked up 36 points against Corner Rest and 24 against Stewart's to finish the 11-game slate with 182 points, a 16.1 average. Ron Burris was runnerup with 180 points. Tom McGowan of Carriage House exploded for 47 points against Stewart's.

McGowan and Mike Palladino tied for rebound honors with 165 each.

An all-star game between Ketterer's and the B League All Stars has been set for Dec. 16.

High Marks for Paltz Architects

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ architect. The office in question was located in the Faculty Tower on the campus, and the incident occurred in the summer of 1969, according to Rizzuti and other officials.

Rizzuti said a state regulation said offices in the tower were not entitled to air-conditioning, and as a consequence it was never incorporated in the architectural design. When the offices turned into ovens in the summer of 1969, air-conditioning was requested from the state, and approval was granted. He said the problem was now corrected.

Jack J. Hill, the college's plant superintendent, said he could not think of any problems on campus caused by architectural design.

Hill said many people blame the architects for a building's heating, air-conditioning and ventilating unit in his new office was so bad that one time the temperature in his office registered 128 degrees.

Robert Rizzuti, facilities planning coordinator for the New Paltz college, remembers the incident well, and said Wednesday it was not the fault of the and he saw no solution. As an example, he cited the new Administrative Tower, just occupied this fall. According to Rizzuti, the building was first considered in 1963. It was actually programmed in 1967. A year elapsed for design and bidding. When construction time was added, the building design was actually four or five years old when it was finally occupied.

Rizzuti saw no way around this time lag. He said buildings can be designed with a bit of "expandability" but not much when dealing with public money.

Architects have tended to be somewhat more concerned with how a building looks than how it actually works, but Rizzuti said there were "too many cooks in the kitchen" to let any serious deficiencies through.

Gail Gallerie, an assistant to New Paltz President Dr. Stanley K. Coffman Jr., works in the new Administrative Tower, and spoke of the "shakedown" period that building was now going through.

She said the building had problems, but nothing that could misnumbered floors in the not be corrected. "There are elevator, are to be corrected by certain conditions in a new contractor. The Administrative Tower themselves when people begin carries a one-year guarantee, to occupy it," she said. said Rizzuti, and the guarantee period began last July 6. An architect himself, Rizzuti said "I like this campus. I think building) that I could lay at that we have a good nucleus." He said the campus was well-organized, and cited its "tight administrative Tower, which in-academic core and clustering of cluded such thing as functions."

CHRISTMAS HERITAGE — Students from the Brigham School Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. Rebecca Bagatta, will present a program of "Christmas Past and Present" at the Heritage Savings Bank on Wall Street, Friday night beginning at 7 p. m. Synagogue News

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Synagogue, at 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday at 8 p.m., followed by an Oneg Shabbat, and every Saturday at 9:30 a.m., followed by a Kiddush.

This Friday Dr. Harry Z. Schectman, rabbi of the congregation, will conduct the services and deliver a sermon on the subject, The Possible Dream. The liturgy will be chanted by Cantor Mordecai Edry. The Mourners Prayer will be offered for the following whose yortzeit will be observed in the coming week: Karel Colen and William Field.

Saturday the Ess and See Club will have its monthly meeting, at 8 p.m. The cultural program will be the teaching of Israel and other folk dances by Ron Sanders. A social hour will follow. Everyone is invited to attend these meeting and programs of the Ess and See Club, regardless of affiliation.

The Coffee With the Rabbi session of adult instruction will be held Tuesday, Dec. 12, at 10 a.m. in the library.

The Kadimah Club will hold its meeting Sunday at 11:30 a.m. The USY will meet Sunday evening. Classes in the Congregational School will be held on regular schedule.

Temple Emanuel

Rabbi Jacob Rudin will be guest speaker during Sabbath evening services at Temple Emanuel Friday 7:30 p.m. Rabbi Rudin will speak on The Magic of Midrash.

Rabbi Rudin is a nationally known Jewish leader. He has spoken to Jewish congregations throughout the country. He recently became rabbi emeritus of Temple Beth-El in Great Neck after serving that congregation for more than 40 years.

The Sabbath candles will be kindled by Renee Sachs. The Kiddush prayer will be led by Dr. Jeremiah Sachs and his daughter Heather.

During services the memories of the following persons will be invoked: Alex Semilof, Isadore Marcus, Carrie Levy, Jacob Lutsky, Fanny Gross, Morris Solomon and Dr. Nettie Weintraub.

After service, the Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by Dr. and Mrs. Sachs in honor of Heather's forthcoming Bat Mitzvah.

Adult study group, Contemporary Jewish Thought will meet Tuesday 8 p.m. Topic will be What Is Required of a Reform Jew?

Agudas Achim

Congregation Agudas Achim, 254 Lucas Avenue will conduct Shabbat services according to the following schedule: Mincha and Kabbalat Shabbat at 4:20 p.m. Shabbat services 8:30 a.m. and 4:20 p.m. Rabbi Howard Gershon and Cantor Herman Siomovits will officiate. Light Shabbat candles at 4:09 p.m. Services are conducted daily 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sundays 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

The Kingston Hebrew School will meet this coming week on a regular schedule: Sunday 10 to 11:30 a.m.; Monday and Thursday from 3:45 to 5:15 p.m.

Mental Health Director to Be Council Guest

KINGSTON The director of the Ulster County Mental Health Center, Dr. George Joseph, will address the Council of Social Agencies at the regular luncheon meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 12 at the Kingston YWCA.

Dr. Joseph recently came from Harlem Valley State Hospital in September to take over the leadership of the Mental Health Center. He will discuss some of the new procedures he has instituted and ways in which other social agencies can cooperate in the Center's activities.

Visitors are welcome at the meeting, but luncheon reservations must be made in advance.

Artists Offer Works at 1st Holiday Sale

MARBLETOWN A large variety of unusual gifts, made by artist and craftsman members of the Marbletown Artists' Association, will be offered at the group's first Christmas Sale Saturday, Dec. 9, at the American Legion Hall in Stone Ridge.

Items will include paintings, woodcuts, leather articles, pottery, and needlework. The hours of the sale will be from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Environmental Film

Films on environmental and conservation themes will be shown Thursday, Dec. 7, at the Town Hall, Altshen, sponsored by the Shandaken Environmental Conservation Council.

The film will be the second in a series with showing at 8:30 p.m. All interested persons may attend.

Christian Women Announce Speaker

The Rev. Daniel Ogden, Kingston - Ulster County tenor, will be soloist at the December luncheon of the Christian Women's Club. The event is planned for Monday, Dec. 11, at noon in Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Fran Mervin of Kearny, N.J., an artist and interior decorator, who is the sister-in-law of Allan Hartley, cartoonist of Archie comics. Mr. Hartley was speaker for the group's Men's Night in September.

A special feature, Candles,

Garlands and Clip-ons," will be presented by Beaver House of Saugerties.

A nursery will be provided at the Hotel. Mothers are asked to bring a sack lunch and soft toy for each child.

Reservations for the luncheon and nursery must be made immediately with Mrs. Donald Sweeney, Codwise Street, Kingston, or Mrs. Ray Newton, 28 Kalina Drive, Saugerties.

Butler Will Serve Laughter; New Paltz

PETER ABBOTT, Elaine Mixon and Robert Edmonds in WHAT THE BUTLER SAW, now in production by the New Paltz Department of Theatre Arts.

"I love the absolute logic of Alice in Wonderland and have tried to put that kind of logic into my own plays." — Joe Orton.

For those not familiar with Joe Orton, his plays exuberated a wild display of farce, black humor, and absurdity all blended together in a sophisticated package. Unfortunately, the creative wit of Orton's was cut short by his sudden death at the age thirty-four. His sensitive grasp of how society plays its games can be seen in most of his plays.

Orton's last play, the comedy What the Butler Saw, was considered, by many, to be his best. It will be the next featured production on the New Paltz College Campus. The play takes place in a mental hospital where "normal" people discuss abnormalities and other delights until all are caught in a mad frenzy resulting in pure farcical entertainment.

The schedule of performances is as follows: December 7, 8 and 15 at 8:30 p.m., December 9 and 16 at 6 p.m., and December 10 and 17 at 2 p.m.

Tickets for Butler may be purchased in the lobby of the Theatre Arts Building beginning November 30, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. General Admission is $2; student tickets are $1.50. Performances will not be held in McKenna Theatre but in CT20 where an intimate three-quarter round stage has been set up. Dr. John Herr, director of Butler, states that all is going well with his talented cast of six and has warned patrons to arrive early for no one may be seated once the performance is in progress. Plan to attend this "evening of madness" — What the Butler Saw — just for the fun of it.

Hospital Tea Planned

The sixth annual Holiday Tea sponsored by the Auxiliary of Ellenville Community Hospital is scheduled for Monday, Dec. 11, in the hospital meeting rooms.

This annual event is the first in a series of hospital parties and is anticipated by members who enjoy its festive atmosphere and holiday decorations. Invitations are sent to the hospital personnel, nurses, doctors, office and laboratory staff, the local clergymen, and members of the Hospital Board of Directors.

Christmas and Hanukkah decorations, delicious holiday food, and the hospitality of the hostesses make this a warm delightful social hour.

The Auxiliary's regular meeting will take place from 1 to 2 p.m. The Tea is scheduled from 2 to 4:30 o'clock.

Sava Wainapel as program chairman is in charge of the event. She is being assisted by June Del Monte, invitation, and Connie Elman, hostess chairman, who is in charge of refreshments.

All Auxiliaries are urged to be present as they will serve as hostesses for the Tea.

Don't Fret, Seldom Is Often Enough!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest your letter about the high school girl (signed "Miss Four Eyes") who was upset because she had to wear glasses.

I am enclosing a clipping I have had around for some time. It might interest you and Miss Four Eyes. It is a reported PTA meeting, written by Mrs. H. G. F., occupation, housewife.

"Last night there were fifty-six mothers present at the PTA meeting. Only two were absent. I noticed that fifty-three mothers were wearing glasses. The school enrollment is 118 children, giving each mother two and a fraction kids, and more 'fractions' - were visible from where I sat."

"I concluded that if the poem 'Men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses,' is accurate, then seldom is often enough."

UTAH EYE DOCTOR
DEAR DOCTOR: Thanks for a real day-brightener.

DEAR ABBY: While shopping recently in one of the better department stores, I was horrified when I heard the bloodcurdling screams of a hysterical child. I then saw a terrified youngster about 4 years old being held down by her mother while another woman was piercing the child's ears!

I learned that this is a new service the store offers when one purchases a pair of earrings for pierced ears.

Altho I understand it is done by a nurse, I think it is very rude and inconsiderate to impose the sight and sound of this barbaric procedure on other shoppers.

I'd like to know what you think of such a promotion to selling earrings.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD
DEAR NORTH: I think that to subject a small child to such an ordeal is cruel. And to subject shoppers to the "sight and sound" of it is poor business.

DEAR ABBY: I can't forget "Happy in Olympia," the 27-year-old wife and mother who was perfectly happy just being a wife and mother and wanted nothing else from life. I say this is great for her, and probably will be for the next 10 years. But what happens when her children are grown, and want to live their own lives? I have seen too many of my age group (I am 70) struggling with the demands of mothers who cling to them because they have had nothing rewarding or fulfilling in their lives, apart from children.

My mother has been active in her own career for as long as I can remember, but our house has always been immaculate and I have had all the attention I wanted from her. In fact, I keep no secrets from my mother, and I have a better relationship with her than my friends whose mothers made raising their children their own concern.

I suggest that instead of watching talk shows all day, "Happy in Olympia" start learning to do something else, so that when her children grow up and leave her - as they surely will - she won't suddenly feel useless and lost.

THINKING AHEAD

DEAR THINKING: You're thinking all right. Motherhood is a noble career, but it rarely lasts over 25 years. Then what?

DEAR ABBY: Some of the methods used to discourage dogs from attacking amused me.

In our town we also have leash laws, but very few people pay any attention to them.

Our paper boy told me that he was bitten by a dog which was running loose, and as he stood there with the blood running down his leg, the owner stuck her head out of the window and yelled, "Don't worry, Sonny, our dog has had its shots."

CANON CITY, COLO.
DEAR CANON CITY: Shots or no shots, leash laws should be strictly observed. Many a poor hound who thinks he's "protecting his territory" has received one last "shot" his owner didn't count on.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L.A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

The Second Forty

(A forum about mature women)

By Margaret Brookfield

Dear Margaret Brookfield: Do men go through the "change" too? I think my husband is going through it. He's 50 and seems to be having "hot flashes." He insists that every window and door be open, even in the coldest weather. People who visit us are always so chilly, they must keep their coats and jackets on. Although I have hot flashes of my own, I try not to complain. This problem, however, is driving me up the wall. And I can't live in a sweater forever. What can I do about it?

P. B.

Dear P. B.: Men in their 50's may have difficulties in adjusting to the fact that they're not young lads anymore, but they don't go through the menopause as women do. (It's a matter of

Officers Nominated

The nominating committee of the Auxiliary of Ellenville Community Hospital has presented the following slate of officers for 1973. This slate will be presented and voted on at the annual meeting on January 8.

Nominated for president is Louise Verdino; first vice president, Evelyn Greenberg; second vice president, Ceil Binder; treasurer, Marcia Sperling; recording secretary, Marvel Eck; and corresponding secretary, Guenn Downs.

A change in the by-laws will also be voted on at the January meeting.

Halcyon Park Club

Halcyon Park Women's Club held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Cathleen Harkins where Mrs. Norman Hatt, chairman, welcomed new member, Mrs. Millie Wakeley.

A string ornament workshop took place at the home of Mrs. Hatt. Several creations made by members were displayed.

The club voted to continue to aid a needy family during the upcoming holiday season.

A group of members offered to take recyclable materials to the ARC Center at 2 Jannet Avenue.

The annual Christmas banquet has been changed to Thursday, Dec. 14, at the home of Mrs. Hatt, 2 Brookside Court. A buffet supper is planned along with a gift exchange. Serving on the committee are Mrs. Lorraine Brown, Mrs. Patricia Spencer, Mrs. Marge Sainsberry, Mrs. Ann McCullough and Mrs. Gena Houck.

The program for the evening was presented by Mrs. Patricia Puck and Mrs. Mary Eppard. The topic was "Spice and Everything Nice." Refreshments from the food lesson were served by Mrs. Gloria Montague and Mrs. Eileen Grossman.

Dinner Meeting

Holiday spirit will surround the monthly dinner meeting of the Kingston-Rhinebeck Christian Business and Professional Women's Council on Tuesday, Dec. 12 at Beekman Arms in Rhinebeck. Ladies are encouraged to bring their gentlemen friends to this special "Men's Night" dinner.

The special feature, "Santa's Workshop," will offer gift ideas by Flah's for both men and women on your shopping list.

Paula Blish, soprano soloist, will add to the program with a selection of holiday songs. The evening will be highlighted by guest speaker, Daniel A. Eriksen, a practicing attorney in White Plains. Eriksen received his BS degree from New York University in June, 1959, and his Juris Doctors degree from Brooklyn Law School in June 1970.

A member of the American Bar Association, the New York State Bar Association, and numerous other professional organizations, he has also found time to actively serve as a church layman.

The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. Newcomers are welcome. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Robert Jack, Milan Hollow Road, Rhinebeck.

Sedate Ladies

The Sedate Ladies, members of the Ulster County Cooperative Extension, held their December meeting at the Stony Run Community Room. Dorothy Groat, hostess, taught members how to make pinecone wreaths.

Two new members were welcomed. They are Kay Proper of Mt. Marion and Harriet Hartrick of West Saugerties. All interested homemakers in the community are welcome.

Election Planned

The regular meeting of Vanderlyn Council No. 41, Daughters of America, will be held Tuesday, Dec. 12, at YWCA at 8 p.m. Election of officers is on the agenda. A Christmas party is planned afterwards.

Each member is asked to bring a gift for exchange. Recognition will be given to those whose birthdays take place within June to December.

Philharmonic Performs Here; Honegger Symphonic Psalm

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic, conducted by Claude Monteux, and the Community Mixed Chorus, directed by Albert Hunter, presented "King David," a symphonic psalm by Arthur Honegger Monday evening at the Community Theatre, Kingston.

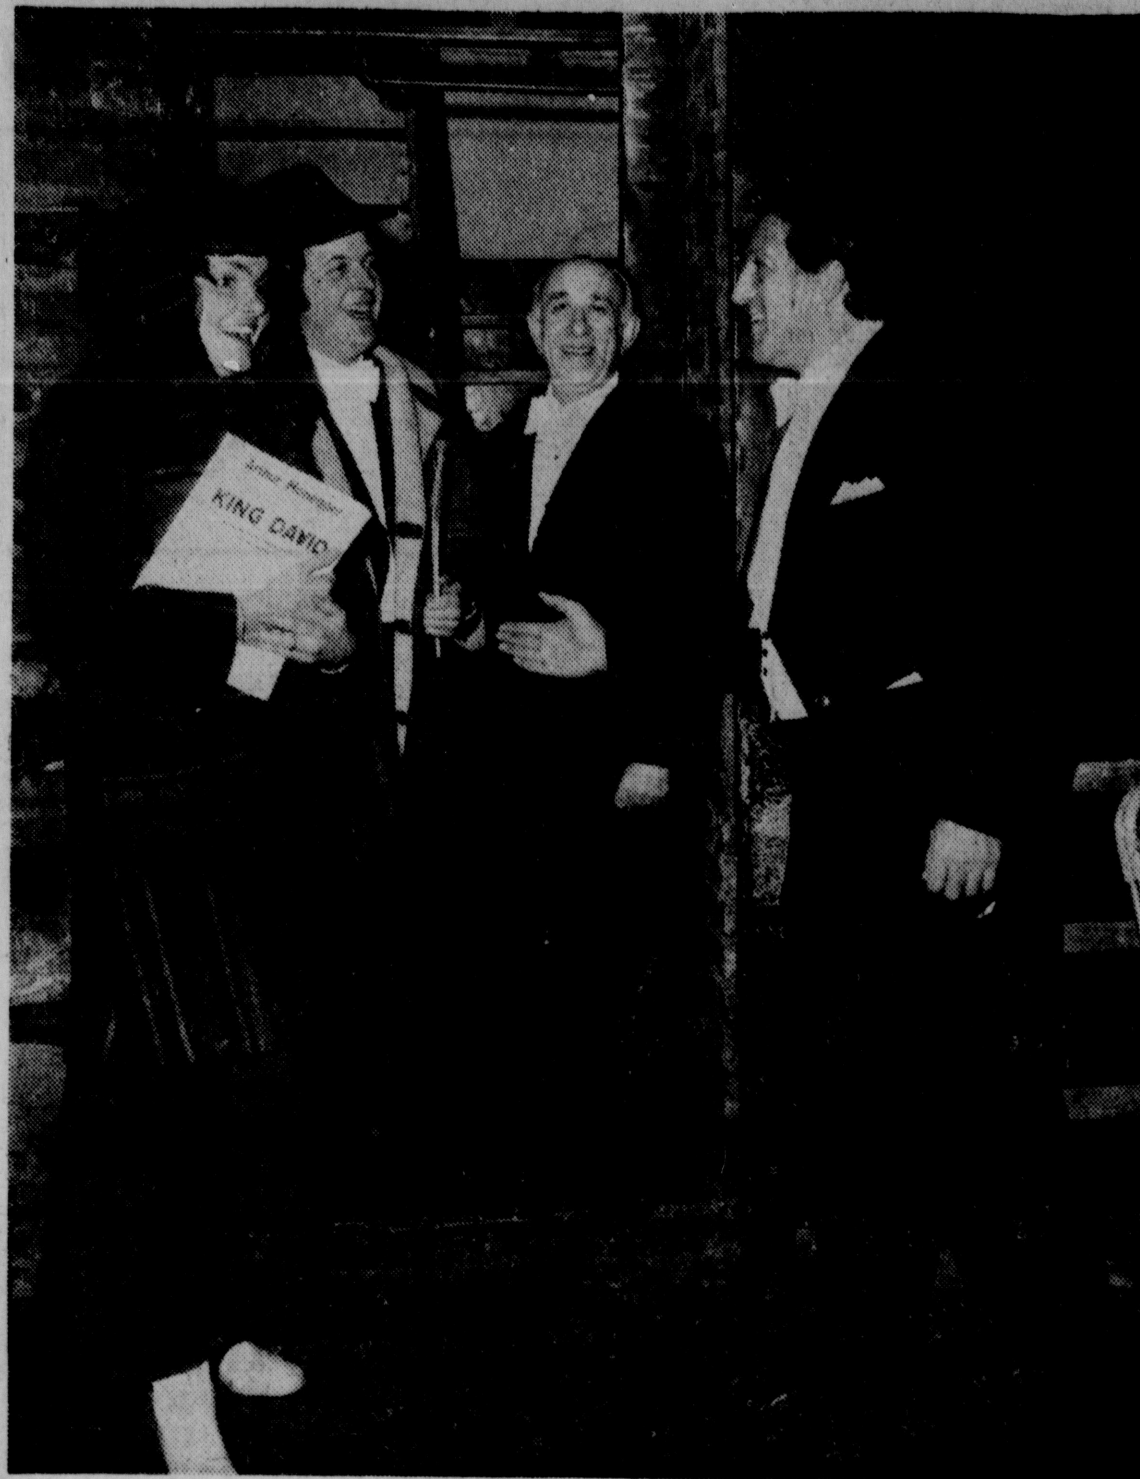

Rabbi Erwin Zimet was the narrator, his part is spoken, and provides the necessary connections between the vocal and instrumental parts of the story. The Symphonic Psalm is divided into three parts: the first includes "A Song of Victory," (David's over Goliath) and "The Song of the Prophets." The second part has "The Dance Before the Ark" and the third part deals with David's love for Bathsheba, his revolt of Absalom and his death. The third part concludes with King David in his old age. Having seen his son crowned, he leaves the temple for the last time.

Soloists singing the Community Mixed Chorus were Bernice Bramson, Paul Taylor and Linda Hirst. Mrs. Bramson, a teacher at Mt. Kisco School of Music, was highly praised by critics last year for her recital at Carnegie Hall which took place under the auspices of the school. In the past, she has appeared with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic's production of Mendelssohn's "Elijah."

Paul Taylor has sung with the Czech Philharmonic Orchestra and has been featured in the Brighton Festival. Mr. Taylor has been featured by the Philharmonic in recent years in Verdi's "Requiem" and Haydn's "The Creation". Linda Hirst of England made her debut as soloist on London's South Bank in 1970 after being a member of a number of small, professional choirs and ensembles. Last year she recorded "The Messiah" in Bethlehem with the Israel Radio Orchestra.

This concert was the last in the Philharmonic's Fall Series. The Spring Series will begin February 26th at the Community Theatre. In the interlude between series, there will be a Chamber Music Series at Ulster County Community College. For information, one may contact any Philharmonic volunteer.

CLAUDE MONTEUX, at right, conductor of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, greets principals in Monday night's concert at the Community Theatre in Kingston. They are (L-R) Linda Hirst, alto; Paul Taylor, tenor; and Rabbi Erwin Zimet, narrator for KING DAVID, a symphonic psalm by Arthur Honegger. The Community Mixed Chorus, directed by Albert Hunter, also appeared on the program. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

PAW Satiric Revue Now in Rehearsal

A satiric revue, "Meanwhile... in Beautiful Downtown Woodstock," directed by Toronto's Don Cullen, opening New Year's Eve, will be presented by Performing Arts of Woodstock, cabaret style, with bar, upstairs at Deane's Restaurant.

Headlining the revue will be Carol Robinson, Janet Sankey, Wende Sherman, Don Cullen, Franklin Alexander, Larry Shufeldt, Ron Radice, and Bill Burgin.

After a week of open casting, and a week's rehearsal, the director has flown back to Toronto to appear in "The Purple Playhouse," and "Sweeney Todd the Barber," for the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. Kim Herald, assistant to Don Cullen, is carrying on with rehearsals until Don's return to Woodstock this week-end. The New Year's Eve opening of "Meanwhile..." will have two performances: 8:30 and 10:30 p.m.

Toby Berg Will Open 'Greenhouse' Dec. 16

MILLBROOK, N.Y. — From East 51st Street in Manhattan, to the beautiful hills and valleys of Dutchess County, Toby Berg has brought "The Greenhouse" and her own personal concept of beauty in design for interior and exterior decorating with "Plantscapes."

The Greenhouse will open for business on Saturday, Dec. 16 at 9 a.m. and will feature, not only exotic plants and easy-to-care for house plants, but also hand thrown ceramics, beautiful, functional, modestly priced canisters, plants and fountains.

On Friday, Dec. 15 at 2 p.m. there will be a cocktail party for the press and garden clubs. Toby Berg will reveal her plans for future cultural events at her Millbrook location-monthly exhibits by artists, and lectures by Mrs. Berg on the proper care in choosing plants, tips for successful growth and maintenance, the value of proper pots and containers, use of artificial lighting and growing organic vegetables! The Greenhouse will cater to private residences, motels, shopping centers, banks, offices and lobbies, theatres and even architectural fields, and will sell wholesale as well as retail.

Exciting things are planned for The Greenhouse. For details, write Toby Berg, South Road, Millbrook, N.Y. 12545 or call 914-677-3771. The greenhouse is one mile east of Taconic Parkway via Route 44.

Christmas Cantata

Christmas Cantata, "The Story of Christmas," by John W. Peterson will be presented Sunday, Dec. 10 at 4:30 p.m. in the Sanctuary of First Baptist Church, Albany Avenue, Kingston. Choir members from Trinity United Methodist Church and other guests will join the Choir to present this cantata.

The Rev. Norman Blossat, pastor, will serve as narrator, assisted by the Rev. James Veach. Organist-choir director is Mrs. Arthur T. Pedersen. The traditional Christmas Tea will be held after the musical program. The Young Couples' Club will be in charge of the Tea. The public is invited.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOSIE
'TIS THE SEASON TO BE POPPING

Dear Folks:

I always pour my popcorn on a greased cookie sheet after mixing in the syrup. Sometimes I add some peanuts, but if the budget can stand it, pecans are even better. Pour it out on a greased cookie sheet to let it cool a bit before forming into balls.

One time when the telephone rang, I forgot the popcorn and when I went back it was too cold to make balls out of, but did I ever have some great caramel corn!

We liked it even better than balls, as it was easier to eat.

HELOSIE

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

For two years I have been taking care of a dear sweet lady. She has had two falls lately in trying to get out of bed. I talked to her most considerate daughter about stretching bells along the edge of her mother's mattress. Shopping around, she found some bells tagged "Made in India" — five bells, graduating in sizes, on a red twisted silk cord.

To my delight, they have turned out so helpful. The bells are hanging along the top edge of the mattress, where it is so easy for her hand to rub the bells and make them ring, letting us know she is needing some attention.

If I should be sleeping, the bells waken me at any hour of the night or day to tell me she needs something or is trying to get out of bed.

MARY DAVIS

Dear Heloise:

After my friend had her baby, she came over for a visit. I held the baby and noticed he felt damp.

I kidded her about really filling him up — to leak through rubber pants! To her surprise she had changed him and then forgotten to put the rubber pants on before she dressed him.

What to do? I finally came up with the idea of using a heavy plastic bag. I cut out both bottom corners, put the bag on just like a pair of rubber pants and folded the top down and tucked it into the top of the diaper.

It worked and we had a beautiful "dry" evening!

RUTH CLEM

Dear Heloise:

After a few bed spring flops in the night when everything should be quiet . . . we became a little disgusted with the situation!

Ours is a bed with the wooden side rails so we came up with this idea:

Place the end of the center slat close to the side rail. With a drill, bore a hole through both the slat and the lip of the rail. Next tap a flat-headed bolt through the holes you made, fastening the nut on the end of the bolt on the bottom side.

Now do this same thing on the other end of that slat.

Put the other slats where you want them. By fastening that center slat this way, it will hold the sides straight and those bed springs should now stay in place!

TILLIE

Dear Heloise:

When repainting basement steps that have become a little slick with wear, try sifting some fine sand into the paint. Then make swirls with your brush in the traffic area of each step.

ALTA ROWE

Dear Heloise:

Being one of that vast army of insomniacs, I composed this little prayer—

When my head I lay down at night,

If only I could sleep tonight!

A Fan

Dear Heloise:

My 9-year-old daughter came up with this idea.

She used my pizza cutter to slice the small cake she made in her toy oven (the electric kind).

It made nice, neat, little slices which delighted her no end.

Mrs. Nina Collins

THIS COLUMN is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of The Daily Freeman. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Today's quiz was suggested by a letter which included a number of the following questions. Unfortunately, the writer did not send me her name or address so I am unable to write her a personal reply. I hope that she will see this quiz and find here the answers to her questions.

Funerals may seem a dreary subject for a quiz, but many questions do arise concerning the etiquette surrounding burials, and from time to time it seems a good idea to combine the most frequently asked questions in one column. This may be a help to those of you who have recently had, or will have in the future, a death in the family.

1. Q. Who walks with the widow—her oldest son or her brother?

A. If he is an adult, or nearly so, the oldest son. No matter how close she may feel to her brother, the relationship between mother and son is closer. It also establishes his place as the new head of the family.

2. Q. What relatives sit in the family room at the funeral parlor with the widow?

A. Her adult children, and her sisters and/or brothers who are very close to her. Parents and immediate family of the deceased are, of course, there also.

3. Q. Do sisters and brothers of the widow send sympathy cards and sign the register, as well as friends?

A. Not unless they have come from a distance and have not maintained a very close relationship with the family of the deceased. By signing they ensure that the family will remember they came to the funeral. Sometimes, in the stress of the occasion, even the presence of relatives can be forgotten or go unnoticed.

4. Q. When and how much do you pay the preacher?

A. There is no set fee for the clergyman's services, but a contribution is expected. It may vary anywhere from ten dollars for a small private funeral to one hundred dollars for an elaborate one. One of the male members of the family hands it—in an envelope—to the minister when the service is over.

5. Q. Is the organist included in the funeral expenses?

A. Yes. He may send a separate bill, or it may be included in the sexton's bill for the use of the church.

6. Q. Who lets friends know of the death and asks male friends to be pallbearers?

A. Either a close friend or a member of the family. The widow, or the closest to be bereaved, designates the pallbearers with the help of the family, but it would be too much to ask of her or him to ask them to serve.

Santa Claus Schedules Tour, Will Spread Holiday Cheer

TOWN OF ULSTER On Saturday, Dec. 16, Santa Claus will tour parts of the town and his helpers will visit the area between the Kingston city line at Wrentham Street and Boice's Lane. On Sunday, Dec. 17, he will tour the rest of the town.

Program chairman Ronald Swart announced that Santa will distribute Christmas candy from his perch atop one of the company's fire trucks, and will also stop and talk with the boys and girls in the area.

Other fireman officers include Donald "Mac" Tinnie, assistant chief; William Nyulassey, captain; James Williams, first lieutenant; Jay Henion, second lieutenant; Ray Jackson, third lieutenant and Robert Hill, parade marshal.

In the administrative elections for 1973, Robert Swart was reelected president of the company and Peter Lemister Sr. was elected vice-president. Other officers include LeRoy Thomas Sr., recording secretary; LeRoy Thomas Jr., financial secretary and James Alkire, Sergeant-at-Arms. Gerald Woodvine was elected to his 26th consecutive term as treasurer.

Reelected to the board of directors were Orville Klomps, Lew DeGraff and William Harbig. Fred Harder was elected to a first term on the board.

Officers of Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 reminded all area residents to keep snow cleared from around fire hydrants near their home or business to prevent the loss of valuable seconds while fire volunteers clear the snow away.

Spinal Cord Injury . . . New Hardware

Tested by VA at Castle Point

NEW YORK
 After two years of research, development and testing, the Veterans Administration is ready to introduce a new line of hardware designed to bring mobility and usefulness to thousands of Vietnam veterans paralyzed by spinal cord injury during combat.

Designed by engineers of the VA's Prosthetics Center, 232 Seventh Avenue, New York, and tested at the Castle Point VA

Hospital, Castle Point, the new hardware will be introduced to patients at six of the largest VA spinal cord injury centers during the coming year, but will be publicly demonstrated for the first time Dec. 14 at Miami Beach, Fla.

Anthony Staros, director of the VA Prosthetics Center, said the first large-scale demonstration will be held at the Americana Hotel at Miami Beach during a symposium attended by doctors, technicians and directors of hospitals.

"It is now within our power," he said, "to substantially improve the capabilities — and therefore enrich the lives — of patients who might otherwise live out their days without being able to do anything for themselves."

"In our field," he added, "this line of new hardware is a dramatic breakthrough."

As a feature of the Miami

Beach demonstration, he said, "we are hoping to equip a patient who does not have the use of his hands to dial a telephone and make a long-distance call to another patient in New York with the same handicap but aided by the same hardware — something neither could possibly do without it."

He said that all the newly designed devices to be exhibited represent a new departure in the care and treatment of para-and quadriplegic patients.

"One main reason for a public exhibition of this material at this time," he said, "is because we are nearing the end of a two-year development program aimed at providing new devices for spinal cord injury patients."

"Until two years ago, this was pretty much virgin territory. Patients who suffered injury in the upper cervical areas generally lived a life of complete dependency on others," he concluded.

'Christmas Is Just Being Alive'...

TAMPA, Fla. AP — "Christmas is just being alive this year," says Rick Spieler, a 19-year-old college freshman who was given only a 5 per cent chance to live two months ago after being knocked from his motorcycle by a speeding car.

The Syracuse youth, thrown nearly 70 feet by the impact, was rushed to a hospital with multiple internal injuries, a fractured hip and pelvis, a ruptured spleen, a crushed leg, four broken ribs and a punctured lung.

"I thought I died twice that night — when the car pinned my leg and when I went flying through the air," he recalled Tuesday after being released from the hospital.

Spieler, now hobbling around on crutches — his left leg amputated below the knee and his spleen removed — was looking forward to going home to Syracuse.

The homecoming was made possible by fellow students at the University of Tampa, where Spieler was studying math and physics.

Even though he had been a student at the university for only two weeks before the accident, students donated 50 pints of blood and launched a fund-raising drive to help defray medical expenses.

"We heard about the accident and we wanted to do something," explained Seth Perlmutter, 18, a freshman from Ordell, N. J.

Perlmutter and a few other students solicited donations of 500 hot dogs, 20 dozen rolls and 20 cases of soda from area food companies and raised $250 selling them in university dormitories. With the proceeds they bought Spieler an airplane ticket to fly home in time for Christmas.

Spieler said he was riding his cycle into a busy Tampa intersection late last Oct. 6 when he saw headlights from a car bearing down on him down an expressway ramp.

"I gunned the cycle. Police later told me that probably saved my life," he said. The motorist fled the scene, but later turned himself in and was charged with hit-and-run.

"I'm lucky," he added, "but it killed my life-long dream to be an airplane pilot. They won't take me now with an artificial limb."

When Spieler flies home today as a passenger, he says he'll remember most of the students who came to his aid when he needed them. "These were kids I knew only as faces," he said.

RIDE ON — Back lit brightly by the sun and the winter temperatures falling to about 8-degrees, Janette Smith, 15, rides bareback on her galloping horse as they head homeward near Waterloo, Neb. (UPI)

22 Freight Cars Derail

SCOTIA, N.Y. (UPI)—Twenty-two cars of a 76-car westbound Boston & Maine freight train derailed near this Schenectady County village Wednesday.

There were no immediate reports of injury to the train's five-man crew or to any bystanders.

Cars immediately behind the third of three locomotives on the train started derailing as they crossed the Route 50 overpass in the town of Glenville. An eyewitness said he heard "a loud bang" and saw sparks fly behind the locomotive. Some of the cars landed in a nearby back yard.

A B & M spokesman said the cars, carrying general merchandise, had started out in Boston, and had stopped at Mechanicville, in Saratoga County, en route to the Penn Central yards at Dewitt, near Syracuse.

Route 50 was closed to rush-hour traffic for a few hours before being cleared. The rail expected today to remove the derailed cars.

Report Holdup 'Thwarted'

BEDFORD HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Police said they thwarted a holdup at a home here Wednesday night, charging two men with attempted robbery and arresting the intended robbery victim on a charge of possessing 60 pounds of marijuana.

Enforce Laws

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Municipal judges have decided to firmly enforce laws against owners of undisciplined dogs.

Under the new program, effective immediately, dog owners may be arrested or cited by policemen who catch their animals in the act of defecating on a sidewalk, lawn or other private property, running loose, or "breeding" in the streets.

Arrested owners will be fingerprinted, booked and required to post bail of $10 for a first offense, $25 for a second and $50 for a third violation.

Police said the robbery suspects knew the marijuana was inside the house and were also searching for $7,000 in cash, found later by authorities.

Police said it was their third marijuana arrest in three days, for a total of 110 pounds of drug recovered. The two other raids were in Greenwich, Conn. and New York City.

Parents Offer $2,500 Reward

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The parents of a missing Syracuse University coed are offering a $2,500 reward for information leading to the whereabouts of their daughter, Syracuse Police Chief Thomas J. Sardino has announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Levy of Cherry Hill, N.J., offered the reward Wednesday. The Levy's daughter, Karen, 18, disappeared from the Syracuse University campus Nov. 10.

Sardino formally announced the reward after he and other police officials conferred here with Dennis Gealer, a private investigator retained by the parents.

Miss Levy accepted a ride to Monmouth College, N.J., from an unidentified man who had responded to one of several notices the girl had posted on campus buildings, police said.

Sardino said police were also setting up a special telephone hotline for callers who might have information about the case.

Police agencies have received scores of tips since Miss Levy's disappearance, but none have proved productive.

Police said they had no intention of scaling down their search at this point.

At a Special Term, Part I, of the New York Supreme Court, held in and for the County of Ulster, at the County Court House, in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, on the 17th day of November, 1972.

PRESENT:

HON. JOHN L. LARKIN, Justice

STATE OF NEW YORK, SUPREME COURT, ULSTER COUNTY

JOHN A. McSTAY, Plaintiff,

- against -

SUZAN J. McSTAY, Defendant.

ORDER FOR SERVICE OF SUMMONS BY PUBLICATION

Upon reading and filing the Summons and the Complaint in this case, the said Complaint showing the cause of action specified in Subdivision 1 of Section 314 of the Civil Practice Law and Rules, in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant, and upon the affidavit of John A. McStay, sworn to on the 16th day of November, 1972, by which the plaintiff has made proof to my satisfaction that the said defendant cannot be served by another prescribed method of service, with due diligence, and mailing having been dispensed with.

NOW, on motion of Joseph A. McStay, attorney for the plaintiff, it is ORDERED, that the service of the Summons in the above entitled action upon the said Suzan J. McStay, be made by publication thereof in accordance with Rule 316 of the Civil Practice Law and Rules, published in the City of Kingston, State of New York, hereby designated as being most likely to give notice to said defendant, once a week for three successive weeks, together with a notice to the defendant, and a brief statement of the object of the action, and it is further ORDERED, that the Summons, Complaint, Order and papers upon which this Order is granted be filed on or before the first day of publication, and that first publication be made within twenty (20) days after the date of this Order, and it is further ORDERED, that Subdivision 2 of Rule 316 of the Civil Practice Law and Rules be dispensed with since it has been shown to my satisfaction that the whereabouts of the defendant have not been ascertained by the plaintiff in spite of due diligence in that regard, so that the mailing of a copy of the Summons prior to the first day of publication would be fruitless, and of no force and effect.

Vernon Scott

George C. . . . 'Newlywed'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — George C. Scott slogged through three-foot mud on the back lot of Warner Bros. rumbolling his way through dialogue for his new picture "Oklahoma Crude," while the cameras whirled away.

All eyes were on the man who is perhaps America's finest actor, including those of his wife, Trish Van Devere.

They are newlyweds, although their companionship dates back a year or two when they first met in Spain as co-stars in "The Last Run."

Trish sat girlishly on a prop table, swinging her legs, as she watched her husband work. The admiration in her wide-set eyes was mingled with tenderness.

"George is the most courageous actor of all," she said. "He'll tackle any role and refuse to play the same kind of character twice."

Mrs. George C. Scott spent two months in Stockton, Calif., while her husband was acting in location scenes for Stanley Kramer's new film. But Trish didn't hang around the set or engage in social activities.

The gorgeous actress devoted almost all of her time visiting the San Joaquin County Child Development Center.

"It was something constructive to do. And I really enjoyed it myself," she said. "Youngsters are taken there from infancy to their late teens."

"Most of them are from broken homes or where there has been some difficulty with the police or deaths in the family. They are all really uprooted and frightened, not knowing what the future will bring."

Volunteering her own time, the wife of the Oscar-winning actor spent uncounted hours talking things over with children, giving them confidence and hope for the future.

Trish is not a stranger to bewilderment herself.

"When I first met George I was terrified of his stormy reputation and overwhelmed at the prospect of working with him. But I was surprised how quiet he was. It's terribly inhibiting working with someone of his stature."

"I discovered he pretends to be gruff and angry. He snorts and bellows sometimes. Underneath all that bluster is a very sensitive and thoughtful man. He's just having fun working off his energy."

Trish and Scott will work together again later this month in the movie "Day of the Dolphin" in the Bahamas for director Mike Nichols.

Brinegar Named Transportation Secretary

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon today named Claude Brinegar, an oil company executive with a doctor's degree in economics and a love for fast cars, to be transportation secretary. He succeeds John A. Volpe, who will become ambassador to Italy.

Administration sources said the appointment of Brinegar would be announced today, virtually completing Nixon's Cabinet reshuffle for his second term.

Volpe, a former Massachusetts governor who headed the Transportation Department throughout Nixon's first term, will be assuming his first diplomatic post when he moves into the embassy in Rome.

Brinegar, 46, is a vice president of Union and Pure Oil Co. Like most members of Nixon's new Cabinet, he is considered an efficient manager rather than an idea man and is a generalist rather than a narrow focus expert.

He holds a doctorate from Stanford University and has been a guest lecturer at several colleges, including UCLA, Cal. Tech and Nixon's alma mater, Whittier College. He is a director of the International Speedway Corp. at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Administration sources said Nixon will complete his new Cabinet Friday by announcing that Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst will remain.

Brinegar is the third new face in the 11-member Cabinet. Other newcomers are Frederick B. Dent, a Spartansburg, S.C., textile manufacturer who was named Commerce Secretary Wednesday and Peter Brennan, leader of New York's hard hat construction union, who was selected last week as Labor Secretary.

Three top administration officials were shifted to other Cabinet jobs for the second term: Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot Richardson will be Defense Secretary, Management and Budget Director Caspar W. Weinberger will be HEW Secretary and Commerce Undersecretary James P. Lynn will be Housing and Urban Development Secretary.

Five Cabinet members will continue in their present jobs: Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, and Kleindienst.

Four members of the present Cabinet will depart. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and HUD Secretary George Romney said months ago they would leave government after the first term. But Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson and Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson appear to have been eased out.

NEW COMMERCE SECRETARY — President Nixon named South Carolina textile executive Frederick B. Dent as his choice for the next U. S. Secretary of Commerce. Dent, 50, heads Mayfair Mills in Spartanburg, S. C. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

White House Staff...Big Cut Looms

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — More than 1,000 of the new President Nixon's move to slash the White House staff is spurred by little-noticed statistics showing that executive-office employment has doubled in its first term.

Nixon himself acknowledged last week that the "White House staff has grown rather like Topsy." He promised that as he shakes up the bureaucracy and trims personnel "the biggest cuts will be made in the White House staff itself."

The President gave no figures on White House employment or on the size of the proposed cutback. Neither would White House spokesmen.

But an examination of monthly reports published by the Civil Service Commission shows that since Nixon moved into the White House in January 1969 the executive-office staff has increased from 1,748 to 3,562.

More than 1,000 of the new employees were added to the executive office rolls during a 12-month period when federal agencies faced a presidentially ordered 5-per-cent cutback.

The sharp upswing in executive-office employment also bucked the government-wide trend. When Nixon came into office, there were 2,948,393 federal civilian employees, nearly 200,000 more than now.

The columns of fine print in the monthly personnel reports include the more than 600 employees of the White House office—the aides and advisors closest to the President—as well as staffers in a variety of offices, councils, and commissions grouped under the heading "the executive office of the President."

White House officials say—and the statistics confirm—that a portion of the increase can be attributed to new functions taken on by the executive office.

These include, for example, the Cost of Living Council set up to police wage-price controls. At last report, the council had grown from 0 to 966 employees in less than a year.

Major increases occurred elsewhere in the executive offices unrelated to any change in bookkeeping methods.

Henry Kissinger's National Security Council lists 80 employees, about double the size of the pre-Kissinger staff.

John Ehrlichman's Domestic Council staff has grown from 25 employees in late 1970 to 50 but still is smaller than other lesser-known executive offices.

For example, the Office of Telecommunications Policy lists 68 employees, the Office of Science and Technology reports 79, the Council on Environmental Quality, 68, and the Council of Economic Advisers, 58.

The Office of Management and Budget, which has assumed a broader watchdog role over government spending and employment, has seen its own payroll go up from 535 early in Nixon's administration to 689 at last report.

The latest figure of 3,563 executive-office employees does not include 2,300 persons employed by the poverty-fighting Office of Economic Opportunity, which, in some government publications, is listed under the President's executive office.

If OEO employees are included, executive-office employment reaches about 5,800, or 1,000 more than the comparable figure when Nixon took office and initiated policies and proposals that have resulted in slimmed-down OEO operations.

While the President has not specified precisely where White House personnel cuts will be made, he has said they will be substantial.

Talking on Nov. 27 to reporters, Nixon said: "I felt from the beginning that it was important that the White House establish the example for the

NATO 'Contact Accord' Cited

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The decision. The other 11 Dec. 21, between the two United States, Britain and NATO allies were asked to agree to a communiqué leaving them all free to work toward relations with East Germany, thus ending 27 years of official ostracism for the East Berlin regime.

The agreement, worked out privately Wednesday night, was officially relayed today to the winter meeting of the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) by French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann.

West Germany agreed with Rogers and the foreign ministers of France, Britain and West Germany—Maurice Schumann, Sir Alec Douglas Home and Walter Scheel.

West Germany already has signed a treaty with East Germany which recognized that state as a separate entity. It is to be signed Dec. 21, with ratification by the West German parliament expected in April or May.

The American sources said the United States, Britain and France agreed to "open contacts" after Dec. 21, but would "set their own pace" and would not establish diplomatic relations before the ratification. Beyond that, they said, there is no timetable.

Safeguard Patrols Set Up

BELFAST (UPI) — Britain's chief executive in Northern Ireland set up special military patrols Wednesday to safeguard citizens against what he called a wave of "murder madness."

The action came after the slaying of five persons in five days in one section of Belfast.

William Whitelaw, secretary of state for Northern Ireland, announced formation of the military task forces and a few hours later, a 20-man patrol using army vehicles went on duty for the first time.

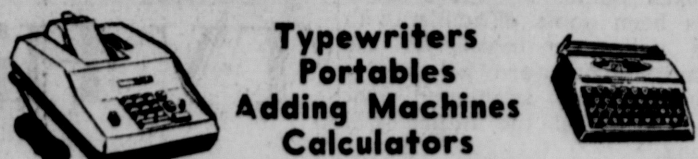

Whitelaw also appealed to the public to help track down killers.

"There are those in the community who know these psychopathic killers," he said. "Shielding someone responsible for this murder madness is only going to delay the day when Northern Ireland is once again at peace."

He spoke shortly after police found the body of another murder victim in the predominantly Protestant district of east Belfast. The victim was Samuel White, a 32-year-old Protestant. Four other persons killed in the area in the past five days included two Roman Catholics and two other Protestants.

White was the 105th victim of assassinations police blamed on religious strife since Jan. 1 and

SOLID STATE FM/AM STEREO MUSIC SYSTEM WITH 8-TRACK TAPE PLAYER

Get more music, and more out of it, with Sharp's stereo music system. Because it's engineered to meet an audio buff's high standards. The system offers a solid state tuner-amplifier with brilliant FM-AM, FM stereo and a built-in 8-track cartridge tape player.

Sharp's special circuitry—OTL (output transformerless), ITL (input transformerless) and FET (field effect transistor) in the front end insures superb and sensitive reproduction. There's a very wide Frequency Response of 40—30,000Hz to reproduce the complete spectrum of musical sound. Two way matched twin speakers with a 6 1/2" woofer and 1 1/2" tweeter add natural balanced tone.

Illuminated tuning dial with FM stereo broadcast signal light; easy to operate pushbutton controls; AFC and AGC for stable, drift-free reception. Complete range of jacks for stereo record changer, stereo tape recorder, cassette deck and headphone. Three matched units with one beautiful thing in common—a luxurious walnut exterior, UL.
